American Troops Now On Five Battlefronts

FRANCO-BRITISH LINES STIFFEN
GERMANS HELD AT ALL POINTS

German masses no longer hurl themselves at the allied lines along extended fronts. The momentum of the Teuton advance of last week appears to have exhausted itself in striking the yielding lines of the French and British, which have now stiffened and are holding the foe except for insignificant gains here and there, especially along the front running south from the neighborhood of Soissons to Chateau-Thierry. The struggle apparently is changing from a war of movement to a war of position.

ATTACK ISOLATED POINTS

Official reports show that the Germans are launching their assaults on Chezy, Corey and near Dommiere, isolated points of vantage. These attacks were, roughly, from five to seven miles apart, along the line which includes ground where the Americans have established themselves and have fought the Germans to a standstill. The French official statement says that the Teuton attacks were all repulsed.

BRITISH REPULSE GERMANS

The report of operations along the British front fails to show any notable activity on the part of the Germans. At Morlancourt, between the Aisne and the Somme, south of Albert, the Germans, supported by heavy artillery fire, attempted to raid the British positions but were repulsed, leaving prisoners behind.

GREAT WORK BY AMERICANS

Details of the fighting in which American units have taken part show that General Pershing's men have gone into battle with a spirit which is magnificent. In their defense of the bridges across the Marne, they repulsed the enemy in a decisive manner and with their rifle fire, prevented the Germans from making further serious attempts to cross the Marne.

American machine gun fire has converted the northern part of Chateau-Thierry into No Man's Land. The Germans unable to hold their positions under the storm of bullets, poured into them by the Americans, have withdrawn to the outskirts of that sector.

Berlin Claims No Gains

Allied defensive measures have broken the force of the German offensive in the salient south of the Aisne and the enemy is now making only strong local attacks. Although recording "successful engagements" in its latest report, Berlin, for the first time since May 27, does not claim any new advances.

Americans In Battle

Foiled by the French in their efforts to overcome the barrier of the Relay forest, east of Villers-Cotterets, by frontal attacks, the Germans attempted to outflank the position by assaults north and south of it. After slight gains, the French stopped them on both flanks. American troops taking part in the fighting around Chateau-Thierry, where the western wing of the battle front joins the Marne.

Fighting Along Marne

Between the Oise and the Marne, the fighting continues heavier than elsewhere.

MANY LOWELL MEN REGISTER FOR THE NATIONAL DRAFT

Approximately 250 Lowell men who are 21 years of age registered for the national draft in this city up to noon today at the various local exemption board headquarters. The noon hour brought an influx of registrants that sent the total up to 500 or more.

Registration started bright and early at 7 o'clock this morning. The chairman and members of the various exemption boards were on hand ready to meet the embryo soldiers with all the blanks and materials that the government provided. The regular working force of each board was supplemented by three or four extra clerks and there was little or no delay in handling the registrants. Some of the registrants of foreign birth or parentage had difficulty in answering a few of the questions asked, but eventually the answer was always forthcoming.

Young men of wards 1, 5 and 9 registered at Division 1 headquarters at 220 Merrimack street. Chairman Julian E. Keyes directed the work here. S. M. Phil of 27 Cosgrove street was the first man to register. About 75 men had registered up to noon.

Men from wards 2 and 3 registered in the registrars' office in the basement of city hall where Division 2 board took up temporary headquarters for the day. Chairman George E. Marchand was the presiding officer. Joseph H. Couillard of 321 Willie street was the first man to "sign the papers." The following men assisted as clerks in this division this morning: Bernard J. McCardle, Peter A. Phasoulis and Ernest B. Parsons. This evening City Clerk Stephen Flynn, John C. King and James J. Redmond will assist.

Registrants in wards 4, 7 and 8 registered at the court house in Gorham street, where the members and clerks of Division 3 board held sway under the direction of Judge Thomas J. Enright, chairman. Charles J. Lorigan of 23 Houghton avenue was the first registrant in this division. Up to noon 75 men had registered.

The Greenhage school was the place of registration for the men in ward 5. Chairman James J. Gallagher directed activities here. Joseph Motard of 47 Lilley avenue was the first registrant, and about 50 had registered up to noon. Registration will continue until 9 o'clock this evening, and every man in Lowell who has become 21 years of age since June 5 of last year is obliged to register for the national army.

Just a year ago today every man in the city between 21 and 31 years of age was called upon to go to the polling booth in his precinct to register. Approximately 11,000 responded to the call. It is expected that there will be between 1000 and 1200 registered when the final figures are in this evening.

PLOT TO SMUGGLE JEWELS OF ROMANOFF DYNASTY INTO U. S.

NEW YORK, June 5.—A plot to smuggle into America the crown jewels of the dethroned Romanoff dynasty, stones valued at $2,000,000, is believed to have been discovered by United States customs officials.

CAMPAIGN FOR SALE OF WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

Beginning next Friday morning Lowell and the rest of northern Middlesex county will enter the throes of a 20 days' campaign that is destined to outstrip all previous affairs as far as representative effort and co-operation are concerned.

The period between June 7 and June 26 is to be devoted to a concentrated campaign for the sale of war saving and thrift stamps. The purpose of the drive will be to sell stamps and to obtain pledges for future purchases throughout the year.

Robert F. Marden has been appointed chairman of the county drive and Jas. F. Owens will look after Lowell and the towns in the immediate adjacency. Mrs. James H. Carmichael will head a women's committee which will canvass the women of the city. Mrs. J. Harry Boardman will look after the district as a whole.

There will be no buttons in the campaign, but every person who buys a stamp will be given a pennant. The campaign will be waged in the theatres and on the street corners and a feature will be the speaking of boy orators, some of whom will be those who won four-minute speaking contests recently conducted in local schools. There will also be other "peppery" speakers to explain the stamps.

June 28 is to be known as National War Savings day and President Wilson has made an appeal, part of which is reproduced below.

Chairman Owens will open an office in the Hildreth building in the near future to look after the many details such a campaign will bring forth. It is expected that the recent Red Cross campaign organization will form the nucleus of the drive which opens Friday.

A portion of the president's appeal is as follows:
"The great results which we seek can be obtained only by the participation of every member of the nation, young and old, in a national concerted (thrift) movement. I therefore urge that our people everywhere pledge themselves, as suggested by the secretary of the treasury, to the practice of (thrift); to serve the government to the utmost in increasing production in all fields necessary to the winning of the war; to conserve food and fuel, and useful material of every kind; to devote their labor only to the most necessary tasks; and to buy only those things which are essential to individual health and efficiency, and that the people, as evidence of their loyalty, invest all that they can save in Liberty bonds and War Saving Stamps."

American Patrol Fleet Searching For U-Boat Raiders Off CoastRaid Will Not Check Flow of Men and Munitions to France

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Whatever the purpose of the submarine raid off the Atlantic coast and whatever number of submarines hereafter may come to American waters, there will be no check on the flow of men and munitions to France, Secretary Daniels said today.

"The great duty of our navy," he said, "is to keep open the door to France, to carry our men and munitions to the great battle front and to guard food supplies for our co-belligerents. That has been accomplished thus far and we will continue to keep the road open."

The navy department had no further advice at noon today from the patrol fleet hunting down the submarine that was last heard from off the Virginia and Maryland coasts.

BABY WEIGHERS ARE WILLING WORKERS

The spirit of co-operation in Lowell's baby weighing campaign is one of the most pleasant features of the drive which is being held this week. Everybody, even those only remotely connected with the campaign itself, is co-operating.

The nurses, committee of workers, school teachers and janitors and the general public are all doing their share to make the affair a success. In some places the activity has been so great that it has been found necessary to add an extra pair of scales and another nurse to do the work satisfactorily.

The varying ages of the children who are brought into the various stations to be weighed and measured make an interesting study. One child was only two weeks old while others were well over five years. At one station a pair of twins was brought in.

The campaign is to continue through Saturday evening and all the stations will be open on that evening, according to a statement made by Mrs. Frederick P. Marble, general director of the campaign, this noon. However, it is hoped that others will bring their babies to the nearest station as soon as possible and thus avoid an eleventh hour rush.

To date, the total number of children weighed and measured is well over 1000. It is figured that there are about 10,000 children of five years and under in the city.

The campaign is under the general supervision of the Child Welfare Conservation committee of which Mrs. Edward N. Burke is chairman.

Walter H. Hoyt of the Knowles Scale Co. has offered the use of the scales that are being used in the campaign.

STRIKE STOPS TRADING IN LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO, June 5.—An unheralded strike of scale men, feed men and dock men at the stockyards today, stopped trading in livestock.

Between 2500 and 3000 men went out. After a few hours' delay commission men themselves began handling the stock pens.

"Don't Use Wireless and We Won't Shoot," Newest "Made in Germany" War Slogan—Another American Schooner Sunk—U. S. Destroyer Beats Off U-Boat—Survivors Talk

NEW YORK, June 5.—"Don't use your wireless and we won't shoot," is the newest "Made in Germany" war slogan, under which the emperor's submarine commanders are carrying their campaign of frightfulness into American Atlantic waters, according to persons among 250 survivors of the steamship Carolina, who were brought to this port aboard a coastwise schooner, early today. The Carolina was destroyed by U-boat gunfire 50 miles off the Delaware Capes, on Sunday evening.

Stories told by passengers and crew of the sunken vessel indicated that Edwin W. Vogel of New York city, the ship's 19-year-old chief wireless operator, played a spectacular part in the dramatic riddling of the Carolina. When the submarine messaged the "You use no wireless—we don't shoot," Vogel defiantly repeated his S.O.S. signals, which he had already begun flashing and was on the verge of answering queries from Cape May and the Brooklyn navy yard stations for the Carolina's position when Capt. T. R. D. Barbour, Vogel's commander, ordered him to quit his key and see whether the Germans would keep their pledge, passengers declared.

Captain Barbour said he decided to accept the proposition laid down by the U-boat skipper because he believed dissent would have meant forfeiture of the lives of the women and children aboard the vessel.

Arrival of the 250 survivors here today, 156 of whom were passengers and 94 members of the crew, leaves an apparent discrepancy of 29 persons to be accounted for. This calculation by officials of the New York & Porto Rico Steamship Co., owners of the Carolina, is based on advices that 16 are known to have been lost from a lifeboat which reached Lewes, Del., yesterday with only 19 of its original burden of 35 persons, and that 28 were landed yesterday at Atlantic City.

313 Persons Accounted For
The arrivals here today and at Atlantic City and Lewes, Del., yesterday, total 313.

FAIRBANKS DEAD

Former Vice President and Senator Dies at Home in Indianapolis

Had Rapid Rise to Wealth and Fame—Sketch of His Career

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 5.—Charles Warren Fairbanks, former vice president of the United States, and former United States senator for Indiana, died at his home here at 5.55 o'clock last night. Death was due to intestinal nephritis which had been a chronic ailment with him, but not regarded as particularly serious until recently. All members of the former vice president's family, except Maj. Richard Fairbanks, who is in France, were at his bedside.

The distinction of birth in a log cabin, which illustrious Americans of an earlier day commonly had, was also that of a former Vice President Fairbanks. It is probable that he was the last of American statesmen to have been born in one of these humble cabins.

The one where he was born on May 11, 1852, was at Unionville Centre, O. It came dangerously near being the funeral pyre for the future statesman. When Mr. Fairbanks was a boy of 4, his father built a new home, and the one-room log cabin was used as a carpenter shop. One day while the workmen were at luncheon Charles wandered into the shop and carelessly threw a bunch of shavings into the open fireplace. The cabin caught fire and when the boy realized his danger he was forced to scramble through a window.

Mr. Fairbanks traced his ancestors to the days of Oliver Cromwell, who counted "Payerbanks" among his supporters. Jonathan Payerbanks, the first member of the family to come to America, landed at Boston in 1826. Mr. Fairbanks' father was Loriston Monroe Fairbanks, a wagon maker of Vermont, who emigrated to Union county, O. His mother was a sister of the late William Henry Smith, once general manager of the Associated Press.

The Fairbanks home frequently was the hiding place of runaway slaves and no black man ever was turned away from the door. Fairbanks was eight years old when Abraham Lincoln was elected president. Then followed the Civil war, the stirring scenes of which the future vice president followed with keen interest.

Fairbanks, at 15, entered Ohio Wesleyan college at Delaware, Ohio, sharing an attic room with the son of another farmer, and the two cooked their own meals. Fairbanks did carpenter work to earn his first law books.

Soon after he was graduated, Mr. Fairbanks was appointed agent of the Associated Press at Pittsburgh, Pa., holding that position for one year. His most important assignment was the duty of the democratic and liberal republicans in 1872. This was one of the largest meetings of the campaign and was addressed by Horace Greeley. Later in life he frequently referred with keen delight to his work as a newspaperman.

From Pittsburgh, Mr. Fairbanks went to Cleveland and completed his law course. In 1874 he married Miss Cornelia Cole, the culmination of a romance that began when both were members of the editorial staff of their college paper. To them were born five children, one daughter and four sons.

After marriage Mr. Fairbanks moved to Indianapolis and opened a law office. He took a deep interest in politics and assisted in local state and national campaigns, managed Walter Q. Gresham's campaign for the republican nomination for the presidency in 1888 and later labored industriously for Benjamin Harrison's nomination.

It has been stated many times that Mr. Fairbanks did more to commit the republican party in Indiana to the gold standard in 1896 than any other man and that he wrote the money plank in the national platform adopted at the St. Louis convention, over which he presided as temporary chairman. When William McKinley was nominated for the presidency Mr. Fairbanks toured the country in his interests.

In January, 1897, Mr. Fairbanks was elected to the United States senate. He took his seat on March 4, the day on which McKinley became president. He became a close adviser of the president in the trying times before and during the Spanish-American war.

Among Mr. Fairbanks' greatest services to his country were those performed while he was a member of the United States and British joint commission, which dealt with the Alaskan boundary, lake fishing and other questions.

Mr. Fairbanks was recognized as one of the national leaders of the republican party and as such was made chairman of the committee on resolutions at the Philadelphia national convention in 1900. He resigned from the senate March 4, 1902, having been elected vice president on the republican ticket with Theodore Roosevelt.

While he was vice president, Mr. Fairbanks, in 1908, became a candidate for the nomination for president. He was defeated by William H. Taft and after his term as vice president ended, he went back to the practice of law.

In the campaign of 1916 he was named vice president on the ticket with Charles E. Hughes.

SEVEN YALE MEN FINED FOR RIOT

NEW HAVEN, June 5.—Seven of the eight Yale students on trial charged with breach of the peace in taking part in a demonstration May 26, were found guilty and fined, in city court yesterday. The amounts ranged from $10 to $100.

One of the defendants, C. F. Kent, who had two charges against him, was discharged, the court finding that all he did was to inquire from an officer as to the procedure in securing bail for the others arrested.

Kent was not in the parade. It was brought out that he was clubbed by a police officer after asking a question. John H. Mitchell of Wellesley, Mass., who is said to have laughed at Mayor Fitzgerald, received a $50 fine for breach of the peace, the court holding that as he was arrested by order of the mayor after laughter he could not have been guilty of "failure to disperse upon order."

The highest time came through conviction on two counts, the defendant being O. F. Davidson of Dayton, O. Judge Hoyt said he thought it unfortunate that more of the parades had not been arrested for breach of the peace.

300 ACRES BURNED OVER IN AMESBURY

AMESBURY, June 5.—Fire which started yesterday forenoon in a woodlot on the Newton road burned fiercely over 300 acres of wood and pasture land before the firemen of this town and volunteers from South Hampton could bring it under control. The fire started from a sawmill. It was stopped on the farm of William A. Charland, whose loss included 1500 feet of less than 150 cords of pine logs, as well as standing timber. More than 200 cords of cut wood was also consumed.

DYNAMITE ON TRACKS NEAR BIG MILL

PLYMOUTH, June 5.—A small quantity of dynamite, with fuse attached, was found yesterday on the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. tracks, within 100 feet of the large Puritan mills, it became known today. The bomb was wrapped in paper and was within a few inches of a rail. The Puritan mills are working on large contracts of cloth for the government. Officials are investigating.

Gave Her Health
Strength and a
Good Complexion

Women who grow thin, pale and weak can do much to improve their condition by building up the blood. A faded complexion can be restored by making the blood rich and red. New color will come to the lips and brightness to the eyes when the weak, thin blood is made strong and vigorous.

Mrs. Anna Shaw of 16 Lawson street, Lowell, Mass., used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to overcome the effects of a general run-down condition. "I suffered about six months from bloodlessness," she says, "and could not do my work. I had headaches and dizzy spells, and was nervous and irritable. I had very little appetite and lost weight. My blood was thin and I had no strength nor color."

"After taking one box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which I learned about through the newspaper, I could see that they were helping me. I became stronger, put on flesh and my color improved. I have recommended the pills to others and I shall certainly take them if I should need anything to build me up."

"The purpose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is to build up the blood. They do this one thing and they do it well. They are for this reason an invaluable remedy in diseases arising from bad or deficient blood, as rheumatism, neuralgia, after-effects of the grip and fevers. The pills are guaranteed to be free from opiates or any harmful drug and cannot injure the most delicate system."

In spite of the increased cost of all drugs the price of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has not been changed. Your own druggist can supply you or you can order direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., enclosing fifty cents for one box or $2.50 for six boxes. NEW PLAN TO AVOID IRISH CONSCRIPTION

DUBLIN, Monday, June 5.—The proclamation by the lord lieutenant asking for 50,000 voluntary recruits and thereafter 2000 to 3000 monthly, to maintain the Irish divisions, was issued as an opportunity for Ireland to avoid the application of the conscription law passed by parliament. The text says:

"In pursuance of our promise we now make our offer which, if successful, will insure that Ireland will play her part fully and freely in the world struggle for liberty. The offer is that Ireland voluntarily furnish the number of men required to establish her equitable ratio compared with other parts of the empire."

"In order to establish that ratio, Ireland can be fairly asked to raise 50,000 recruits before October 1 to replenish Irish divisions in the field and thereafter raise from two to three thousand recruits per month to maintain those divisions."

The proclamation proceeds to declare that there is no intention to disturb farming or food production or to do anything to interfere with the country's essential industries. It says it is not expected that many of the rural population will be available for military purposes and that the government is looking almost entirely to the large number of young men in the towns, which is far greater than is required to carry on the ordinary retail trade, to furnish the necessary contingent, as is done in England, Scotland and Wales.

Then announcing that it is proposed first to call the younger men and those who can best be spared to fight for the Motherland, the proclamation specifies the ages. The first call is especially to men 15 to 27 years of age. Older men will be accepted, however.

"We recognize," the proclamation continues, "that men volunteering are entitled to share in all their Motherland can offer. Steps therefore are being taken to insure, as far as possible, that they are not."

For Women Who Worry

Worry and "the blues" are usually linked together, and in many cases are due to some functional derangement which if not corrected may lead to more serious ailments. More outdoor life, sleep, water-drinking and a few weeks' treatment with that good old-fashioned root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, will revitalize and strengthen the system and work wonders for any woman. If you are prone to worry and "the blues" try it.

Americans Help in Battle

The Marin reports that in Monday's talk to the army committee Premier Clemenceau went largely into the general war situation, and dwelt particularly upon the question of munitionment and that of American co-operation, the intensity of which, he indicated, was making itself more and more strongly felt.

As regards the situation on the main battle front, the newspapers held the view that the process of stabilization has already begun. The balance between the respective forces, indeed, is believed to be nearly re-established, the French to inflict heavier and heavier losses upon the enemy.

Taking the front as a whole, however, it is declared, the enemy retains a numerical superiority, and in view of the possibility that he may essay an offensive in another direction, the French command is obliged to exercise prudence and await its hour before heavily committing itself.

AUTOMOBILE ON FIRE

An alarm from box 24 at 5.15 o'clock this morning summoned a portion of the fire department to Appleton street, opposite Elliot street, to extinguish a fire in an automobile belonging to Contractor Edward G. Twohey. The blaze started from a spark which ignited some grease in the drip pan, but Mr. Twohey did not know that his car was afire until a

Supreme War Council Also

Confident of Ultimate

Allied Victory

Declares U. S. Army Makes

Defeat of Huns Certain—

Thanks Wilson

LONDON, June 5.—(By the Associated Press)—The supreme war council, which has had under advisement the entire war situation, has expressed in an official statement made public last night full confidence in the outcome of the war, with the aid of the American forces.

Complete confidence in Gen. Foch is also expressed, and thanks are extended to President Wilson for his co-operation in the work of transporting and brigading American troops.

"The supreme war council held its sixth session under circumstances of great gravity for the alliance of free peoples," says the statement. "The German government, relieved of all pressure on the eastern front by the collapse of the Russian armies and people, has concentrated all its effort in the west. It is now seeking to gain a decision in Europe by a series of desperate and costly assaults upon the allied armies before the United States can bring its full strength effectively to bear."

The advantage it possesses in its strategic position and superior railway facilities has enabled the enemy command to gain some initial successes. It will undoubtedly renew its attacks, and the allied nations may be still exposed to critical days.

"After a review of the whole position, the supreme war council is convinced that the allies, bearing the trials of the forthcoming campaign with the same fortitude as they have ever exhibited in defense of the right, will battle the enemy's purpose and in due course bring him to defeat."

"Everything possible is being done to sustain and support the armies in the field. The arrangements for unity of command have greatly improved the position of the allied armies and are working smoothly and with success. The supreme war council has complete confidence in Gen. Foch. It regards with pride and admiration the valor of the allied troops."

"Thanks to the prompt and cordial co-operation of the president of the United States, the arrangements which were set on foot more than two months ago for the transportation and brigading of American troops will make it impossible for the enemy to gain victory by wearing out the allied reserve before he has exhausted his own."

"The supreme war council is confident of the ultimate result, and the allied peoples are resolute not to sacrifice a single one of the free nations of the world to the despotism of Berlin. Their armies are displaying the same steadfast courage which has enabled them on many previous occasions to defeat a German onset. They have only to endure with faith and patience to the end to make victory for freedom secure. The free peoples and their magnificent soldiers will save civilization."

passerby shouted at him. A hand extinguisher was secured and the fire was smothered before the arrival of the fire apparatus, which responded to the alarm sounded by some excited person.

AIRPLANES AND "BLIMPS" EYES FOR U-HUNTERS AS WELL AS ARMY

BY SEAMAN R. W. BURKE OF THE U.S.S. "ALBATROSS"

If you have airplanes to co-operate with the destroyers, you can keep your eyes right on the submarine.

The higher the airman goes above the water the farther down under the water he can see—on the principle of the fish hawk.

With a big convoy planes are always sent out from land to meet us. They are big hydro-planes—you never see them over here—with big pontoons fastened on them so they can come down and sit on the water and make repairs and go up again. They can shove off any time they want to. And they can go out on a very good rolling sea. Sometimes they come out as far as 50 miles to meet a convoy.

They circle about scouting over and around the convoy, and signal to us whenever they spot anything. They signal either by a blink light—something like an oculist's light—or by wireless.

We got a wireless one day that a ship had been sunk about 10 miles below a certain point which made it 20 miles away. We got down there, but we never saw anything of it. The ship had been torpedoed but when we arrived all the survivors had been taken off by another boat. The sinking ship had been spotted by an airplane 20 miles away.

That is where the airplane comes in handy. We would never have known anything about that sinking if it had not been for the airplane.

Then, too, the "blimps" or dirigibles are used a lot. We used to see them scouting around the sky like so many pigeons all along the coast. They can drop bombs as well as the destroyers. They have accounted for a number of submarines.

A number of our destroyers were operating with a couple of "blimps" one day and the "blimps" discovered a few submarines. I don't know how many.

making back to their base, and signaled the destroyers. They had quite an engagement; the "blimps" dropped depth charges and after a few minutes they had cleaned up the submarines. We used to pick up wireless messages by the hundred. The wireless would be reporting submarines here and there, ship sighted, ship sunk, etc.—all kinds of wireless messages.

Sometimes we picked them up from away down in southern waters, way down in the Mediterranean, and one day we picked up a wireless saying three merchant ships were engaged with some submarines in a gun battle. They were too far away; we did not attempt to reach them.

But immediately after, we picked up another wireless which said "another destroyer coming up." The submarine must have heard that wireless coming back so she submerged as soon as she saw the destroyer coming along.

The Mysterious Captain

There was one mysterious submarine captain who sent out messages all the time signed "Kelly." He would send a message boasting that he was going to torpedo some messages ship, signed "Kelly;" or that he had missed a ship; and message to such a ship: "Sorry, I missed you."

The commanding officer used all our wireless boys at the time on those messages from Kelly, trying to find him out. He seemed to be pretty square; he would never deal in the regular German dirty work. He always got the passengers off before he would torpedo a ship. And he was clever.

Signals Any Old Time

Sometimes we would be in port taking on supplies, cleaning ship, or with half the boat's wash out on the lines, when the signal would come suddenly that a submarine was reported outside, and ordering so many destroyers to get under way at once.

The quartermaster would pass the word that the Admiralty had reported "submarine operating such and such a place; how soon can you get under way?" Then they would send out a call, "How soon can the different ships get under way?" Sometimes we could get underway in ten minutes if we had steam up. Sometimes the destroyers would go out and they wouldn't have any life lines rigged or anything, and maybe not all the crew on board. The men on liberty would have to be picked up later.

When we went ashore in England the first thing we would do would be to go and get something to eat. We would buy a chicken and some Brussels sprouts and take them to a restaurant to be cooked. There's nothing like a change. We would get tired of "Canned Bill" (corned beef), "Goldfish" (canned salmon) and the other regular "chow." At the American club we could get real American French fried potatoes. We brought aboard with us some English war bread. It's fine. But I guess you can get too much of it. Anyway the British naval officers used to come aboard the American ships to get some of our white bread.

TO REVISE CONSTITUTION OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

CONCORD, N. H., June 5.—Revision of the method of taxing growing timber and a proposal for the taxation of incomes were the most widely discussed topics among delegates to the constitutional convention which met here today.

The rapidity with which forests have been cut off during the last few years has been ascribed by many land owners as being due to the fact that taxation on their full value each year has made it unprofitable to allow their continued growth. The state tax commission in its last annual report, suggested a constitutional amendment which would empower the legislature to assess growing timber on a graduated scale, according to its estimated value each year.

This convention is the tenth to be called to revise the constitution of the state and is the largest in point of numbers, a total of 424 delegates being elected. The drain of war upon the young men of New Hampshire is reflected in the fact that out of the 424 delegates, only five are under 30 years of age. Many of the delegates were in favor of adjournment immediately after organization on the ground that revision of the constitution should be postponed until after the war.

DEMONSTRATE FOOD BY TROLLEY

Special to The Sun.
STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 5.—In order that Boy State housekeepers may have an opportunity to witness practical demonstrations of the possibilities of food conservation, and the use of substitutes, plans are being made for a special trolley demonstration car which during the summer months will visit all of the principal centres.

A specially constructed vestibule car has been chartered, and when it is equipped, will start out over the Bay State street railway tracks for a cruise of several days. The route will run along the highways, starting in the northern section at Lowell and moving toward the Cape towns. Permits have been secured for stops of a full day in each of the larger centres, and this will give ample opportunity for several repetitions of the program of lectures and demonstrations.

This latest project to further the food conservation work of this state has been made possible through the generosity of Mrs. A. Lawrence Hopkins, and the plan has the hearty approval of the food administration. It is expected that the initial trip will be made early in July, and when the Bay State route has been covered the car, or others similar to it, will be transferred to routes in the central and western sections of the state.

SUMMER BOARDERS MUST HOOVERIZE

Special to The Sun.

STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 5.—Keepers of small summer boarding houses are amenable to the rules of the food administration, just the same as the larger hotels and restaurants, according to a decision by Herbert Hoover in the case of Leslie F. Saalman of Blandford, who owns a farm in that town and incidentally caters to a few summer boarders.

In announcing Mr. Hoover's decision,

State Food Administrator Henry B. Endicott says:

"This case is important because it has been taken up by Washington as a test case, and the Saalman case is a precedent for all similar cases throughout the country. It has had careful thought and consideration of both the baking and law division of the United States food administration in Washington.

"Mr. Saalman is a farmer in Blandford, in the western part of the state, who has summer boarders. He took out a baker's license in order that during the summer he might make bread with ingredients permitted by the administration to bakers.

"On our recommendation Washington has revoked his license because it is satisfied that there is no reason why summer boarding houses of the character maintained by farmers throughout New England should not use the same amount of substitutes as private families.

"It blocks one further method of evasion of the '60-50' rule. Of course this ruling will not apply to the large hotels which get bread from regular bakeries."

ANOTHER MILLION YOUTHS REGISTER FOR WAR SERVICE

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Today, on the anniversary of America's first manpower mobilization, another million youths, the estimated strength of the class of 1918 register on the first stage of the journey to the colors.

When their draft registration cards come into their hands, they come to the disposition of a swift, smoothly-working and practiced organization, whose agencies in every country-side, hamlet, and city of the land have assumed successfully the task of discriminating between the nation's need for men who can fight or work, and its additional need for men at home to support its dependent population.

Observers, from the domestic, military and civilian alike, class the performance to date under the American selective service law as the most tangibly successful of its military efforts, and regard the accession to the manpower reservoir of the youngsters who had not reached their majority one year ago as the most certain assurance of the final overthrow of the Prussian autocracy. Be it near or far, the day of allied victory cannot be evaded, the practical military view is, so long as the rising flood of the American armies, drilled, equipped and equipped, can be turned to the European battle.

Provost-Marshal General Crowder, who supervises the draft, fixes the tentative number given above for the day's new total, and likewise from the experience of the year places the number of potential soldiers to be added to the list today at 750,000, including that the class will be 75 per cent composed of military effectives.

As they assemble at the registering stations today, the total of men raised by the draft in the United States for its armies will pass 1,200,000. Before the end of the present month, the total will have passed 1,500,000, for the immense military machine that gives its existence to the readiness of plain Americans to fight is moving forward to a goal that will meet President Wilson's demand for "force" force to the utmost, and force without stint.

The 1500 local boards throughout the country who take the burden of the work have named registering clerks for every 100 of the young men within their jurisdiction. Men absent unavoidably from their homes on registering day may apply to any board for their cards. Names as recorded will pass into the existing classification of registered men and, in accordance with their physical qualifications, their status as to dependents and as to industrial or agricultural occupations, they will be assigned to Class 1, 2, 3, 4 or 5. The overwhelming majority, however, are inducted by the estimate given, the provost marshal general expects to find placed in Class 1.

They will go to the foot of the list of 1917 registrants in each class, and will not be called, the regulations provide, until those above them have been taken, unless by trade or education, they are fitted for specialized army service, then they may be called sooner.

The system of determining the order of their call as among themselves the provost marshal general has not yet fixed, but the general expectation is that some sort of a lottery of the type previously used, will be conducted on a national scale. Yet of this officials are not certain, because the recurring draft calls come more swiftly, and run to larger totals now, and the classification has come to be more important than the numbers.

A late order number will serve only to postpone for a few days the inevitable call to the training camps.

National purpose to see that no individual evades service is expressed in the regulations, wherein are voiced the command of the government to peace officers of all descriptions, United States marshals, secret service men, and city police, that they shall see that exemption boards in scanning lists and combing out attempted evaders of the registration.

brief statement from Secretary William H. Bolger:

Gentlemen of the Board: The past year has been one of the most extraordinary in the history of the country and of the city, and incidentally in the history of our local board of trade. Because of our advent into the world war, which took place a short time prior to the commencement of our board of trade year, the peaceful activities of our various communities throughout the land have been much disturbed and upset. The result has been that the routine work of all chambers of commerce and boards of trade has, to a large measure, been temporarily abolished. Take, for instance, the establishment of new industries. The general tie-up of transportation, the lack of coal and the restrictions which the government has placed upon the formation of large corporations which do not assist in carrying on the war, has seriously retarded the establishment of new industries. In our own local situation we have the added problems of lack of labor and the lack of adequate housing facilities for those employees who otherwise would come to our city. The result, as you know so far as Lowell is concerned, there have been absolutely no demands worthy of mention for sites or buildings to be used for industrial purposes. In many other ways has the ordinary work of the board been upset. Those of the board who have been civically inclined in the past have been devoting their entire energies to war work of one sort or another. The result has been that it has been difficult to interest our own committees in our local city affairs, and even when sufficiently interested, as has happened in a number of cases, they have been unable to accomplish much, due to the fact that they have been called upon to assist in the proper frame of mind to assist in the accomplishment of that which they have sought.

But while there has been no interest in new industrial movements, still, local business conditions have been extremely good. This has been due to the fact that the various war industries situated in Lowell have largely increased the number of their employees and have paid large wages to the same. This has obliged other industries to increase wages 83 per cent over those paid prior to the war. As a result the local merchants have profited to an extent never before equalled in our city, and there has been a period of unexampled prosperity.

The members of the board, who during times of peace have devoted all of their civic energies to the board of trade affairs have been the same men who during the past year have devoted their efforts to war activities. We may well say that in all matters pertaining to war problems, Lowell may hold up her head with any other city of its size in the land. The public safety committee, fuel committee, Red Cross committee, Liberty loan committee, food conservation committee, and so on, are all doing their part to help win the war. It is significant to note that every one of these committees has derived its power from an authority outside the board of trade, and has acted entirely independent of the board of trade. It has developed that this is an extremely happy solution of the problem, because, if all of the functions of these committees were confined to the board of trade, the combination of all would be entirely beyond the capacity of the board properly to execute.

We do not intend this evening to go into a detailed account of the accomplishments of the board of trade during the past year, as that matter will be properly handled by the secretary in his report. We do, however, call to your attention the fact that with a few exceptions, all the accomplishments of the board have been along war lines.

One exception is the work which the board has done in inducing the Home-land Commission to build houses in the city of Lowell. In passing, we merely wish to say that there are now in the process of completion in Hildreth street in Lowell, some 18 houses which have been erected by the commission as model homes for workingmen. It is with considerable pride that we refer to the agricultural fair which was held in Lowell under the direction of the Middlesex North Agricultural society, the park commission and the Lowell board of trade. This fair was held on Sept. 20, 21 and 22, and between 60,000 and 70,000 people attended the fair free of charge. Our idea in organizing such an enterprise was solely to educate the people of Lowell as to what could be done in the way of planting and maintaining war gardens. The success of the venture may be determined in two ways: First, by the large number of householders who are planning their gardens this year; and second, from the reports of Ernest Leach of Bridgewater, a state inspector, who reported to the state board of agriculture as follows: "It seemed to me with exhibits of livestock and farm implements the fair could have been made the most in the state. The exhibits in the kitchen and the decorations were finer than those of any fair I have attended."

We do not intend to expatiate on the work of the board regarding the holding of various meetings at the board rooms pertaining to the food or fuel conservation and meetings of kindred nature. We think, however, that mention should be made of the fact that for a considerable period past the fuel committee has had its headquarters at the board of trade rooms without expense, and that the board of trade has in fact financed the fuel committee temporarily, until funds could be secured to pay their expenses.

The board has been active in the work of Americanization, having sent its president, with the superintendent of schools, to Washington regarding the same, which meeting was called by Secretary Lane of the department of the interior. Nothing as yet has developed regarding the plan, but results will be obtained in the near future in the form of adequate legislation.

At the opening of the present year, in speaking before this board, we made mention of the fact that we hoped that the year might stand for intensive development of the board. Our ideas in the matter have been partially materialized. At a meeting duly called in the course of the year, the by-laws of the board have been changed so that as a result sub-boards classified on industry, may be organized under the general supervision of the board of directors. The chairman of these sub-boards become ex-officio members of the board of directors during such time as they may hold office. We are just as enthusiastic over the possibilities of this plan as we were a year ago this time, but we wish to state that in our opinion the city of Lowell was and still is in a condition where it must be educated up to the possibilities of the plan. It is our hope and ambition that when peace finally does come, we shall have our city so strongly organized industrially, that we may be able to cope with any industrial situation which may arise. The wooden box, the laundry, the hardware dealers, the coal dealers, and the contractors have already been organized and are proceeding with a great deal of enthusiasm in their work, and we are safe in saying that in every instance without exception, they have felt that the organization has proved its worth. It is our earnest belief that the city is in fact ripe for much further development along these lines, and we confidently expect that before many months have passed, we shall be able to report that at least 20 industries have been organized under the general supervision of the board. By so doing we hope to make this board of trade a board of trade in fact.

If we may be so free as to express our thoughts regarding the personnel of the board as a whole, we feel, as was expressed by Senator Weeks at the time he spoke here, "that an organization such as this has manifold possibilities along the lines of accomplishing civic good." We do feel, however, that the board has not been and is not being properly exploited along these lines, and it is to be our serious endeavor during the coming year to see to it that it is so exploited. We hope to see the board take a much more active part as a whole in the war activities and to lend its hand in a more enthusiastic manner to all things which might accrue to the benefit of our local community and to our country as a whole.

In closing we wish to call to your attention the work of the board of trade pertaining to the housing problem which is at present being negotiated with the United States government. The project, if successful, will prove to be of great benefit to the city of Lowell, in fact, as great as any other venture which has ever been undertaken. If the government decides to assist us, and it looks very much as if it intends to, at least a part of the cost of building the city of Lowell will be expended in the least happy of all building enterprises, and there is a possibility that the sum may reach nearly $1,000,000. It is but just to say that it has not been the work of the board of trade alone through which we hope this result will be accomplished, but it has been the combined efforts of the board of trade with the public safety committee and numerous private citizens throughout the town. But it is with pride we state that practically without exception every man who has assisted in this work at the invitation of the board of trade has in fact been a member of our board.

And here, as I think is one thought more than another which we wish to leave with you tonight, it is this: Those of us who are actively engaged in board of trade work are intimated with the sole motive of accomplishing something for the benefit of our city. We are unduly proud neither of our city nor of our board of trade. We welcome suggestions and just criticism. We expect that when we call upon you for action we shall meet with a hearty response. In short, we demand co-operation in ideas, co-operation in action. And with such co-operation the work of the board cannot fail.

VIGOROUS WAR ADDRESS BY D. BREWER EDDY

D. Brewer Eddy of Boston, associate secretary of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions, addressed the members of the Lowell Congregational club at the meeting held last night at the Dracut Centre Congregational church, his topic being "Some War Problems for Christian People."

It was the final meeting of the season, supper was served and a business session held, at which officers were elected for the ensuing year. The report of the secretary and treasurer, Louis Alexander, contained much valuable information and showed that 23 new members had been received during the year and that at the different meetings had been an average of 150 at the table. All bills have been paid and there is a small balance in the treasury.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Lewis E. MacBrayne; vice president, Rev. William F. English, Jr.; secretary and treasurer, Louis Alexander. Some work committee—Rev. A. G. Lyons, Rev. R. C. Beale, Rev. R. G. Clapp, Rev. H. A. Barker, Rev. E. A. Robinson, Rev. A. E. Jones, Rev. E. C. Bartlett, Rev. A. B. Hussey.

Social committee—J. Victor Carey, E. T. Shaw, Dr. W. E. Darling, Haven G. Hill, Oris W. Butler, L. A. Olney, Mrs. Walter Mussey, Miss Susan McEvoy, Mrs. A. C. Richardson, Miss Julia Fox, Mrs. D. M. McKinley, Miss Edith E. Russell.

Memberships committee—E. W. Clark, Dr. A. G. Dennett, F. Fleming, Hector Turnbull, A. H. Slater, E. Wood, Mrs. J. G. Buttrick, Miss Fannie Murphy, Miss Carrie Erskine, Mrs. E. T. Shaw, Mrs. Fred Lacey, E. T. Adams.

Mr. Eddy's Address

Rev. E. C. Bartlett introduced Mr. Eddy as the speaker of the evening, and the latter in opening spoke of the military problem, quoting a man who had been at the front. These men, the speaker said, in talking of conditions on the western front, say that there are no French divisions that could be called reserves for army maneuvers, men who know the country thoroughly is that any human force could have driven back the French army at the rate of seven or eight miles a day. In the reserve munition dumps the accumulated results of months of work on the part of munition factories of France. He spoke of one great scandal of the air service, in which he could number the planes literally by

Your Garden

HOE FOR LIBERTY!

Hoe and hoe, then hoe some more, is the best motto which the home food grower can adopt. Eternal hoeing is the price of a good garden, just as eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. Frequent cultivation will save the garden from much other labor and it has many advantages, says today's bulletin from the national war garden commission.

For instance, it will save much watering and is better for the plants. In fact, the hoeing will keep the moisture, which is down in the ground from evaporating. The dust cover or "mulch" as it is called, prevents this. In addition, hoeing lifts in the air and liberates the fertility around the plant roots so that they can get at it and eat it. Another advantage is that hoeing will keep weeds from getting a start and consuming the food in the garden.

He considered next the economic problem, and said that we have only scratched the surface on the question of economy and sacrifice. We must strengthen ourselves for a hard year for a decade. It may be less, but the economy of our people is not yet felt with intensity in this country. In England, at least 40 distinct lines of manufacture are closed up. That sort of thing is coming here. The vast treasures of our country are being pooled for the purpose of effectively carrying on the war.

Speaking of problems in the moral realm, he said that we have reason, as Americans, to be proud. The moral condition of our troops in France is good. We are not throwing to the winds the ideals of American homes. In all the cantonments that I have visited, the moral leaven of our American background is higher than in any other war that America has known. And why? Because the church did its work well.

Finally, he said, the problem of the church for the next few years is going to be an exceedingly interesting one. The churches of this country will have to adapt themselves. They must take on a share of the Y.M.C.A. type of service. The strong men in the ministry are having a taste of more virile work, and it is going to be difficult for them to come back to Sunday school conditions. All over the country there is the problem of adaptation. The moral conditions, in the churches, let us stand behind the Y.M.C.A. and be prepared to use the only methods that can reach the man in uniform when he comes home.

New spiritual forces are rising in the country, he said, to meet the church. In this connection, he told of an Englishman with whom he talked who had five sons in the service, and who said that he and his wife would rather that not one of them would ever return, than that they should accept one word of compromise. The heart of Britain is an unbroken square of Waterloo. I am more sure of the heaven-high reaching spirit of Britain than I am of sometimes superficially thoughtful America, in the present time. We will rise, I believe it. We shall have an example

CONGRESS MAY TAKE RECESS

Congress is speeding up on pending legislation with the hope of getting a six weeks' recess, beginning the last of this month. During that period the ways and means committee will be busily engaged holding hearings and framing the revenue bill intended to raise about $2,000,000,000 next year. Congress has had a busy time of it since we entered the war and there is no sign of immediate relief. While the war lasts congress is likely to have to work overtime.

OFFICERS PUT OUT LIGHTS

In the conservation of fuel it might be well to have police officers extinguish street lights that are sometimes left burning as late as 8 or 9 o'clock in the morning. Of course it is a difficult thing to get around to all the lights so as to extinguish them before sunrise and to expect one or two men to do it is to expect the impossible. The police officers could attend to this matter without going off their beats and thus save the city the expense of paying for a good many lights kept going for several hours in broad daylight.

ENGINEERS DEPARTMENT

We fully agree with Commissioners Morse and Donnelly that the granting a leave of absence to a city official does not create a vacancy.

City Engineer Kearney has gone to serve his country and one of the commissioners is itching to have him ousted and put another man in his place. If the engineers department has so many competent men, why should they not stand ready to perform the department work when called upon, even though none of them be designated as city engineer? Let Mr. Morse indicate what he wants these men to do and it shall be done or else there may be cause for a removal rather than an election.

THE U-BOAT BASES

The great quest of the government now is to find the bases of the German submarines that have raided American shipping along the eastern coast. Some will at once suspect they have stations on the Mexican coasts, while rumor has it that their bases are located in Yucatan. These coasts, however, will be closely watched and it will not be well for any American state found harboring the German U-boats. We do not believe that any of the South American countries would give them shelter or assistance, but the sly Germans can easily arrange for establishing bases suitable for their needs without the knowledge of any government authority.

THE CAR BLOCKADE

We do not like to be in the position of hitting a man who is down; but while we realize that the Day State Street Railway company has considerable to contend with owing to the embarrassed financial condition and the difficulty of getting men to run the cars, yet we do believe that there are many delays at the square and at other points that might be avoided. Just because some conductor or motorman flunks on his job, is behind time or doesn't care, it happens that one car holds up half a dozen or more for from five to fifteen minutes, thus disarranging the running time on as many different routes. The men who can't keep time or who unnecessarily cause these delays should be in some other line of business.

THE TELEGRAPHIC STRIKE

If the contention of the Western Union Telegraph company in the trouble with its employees is that they have no right to organize, that company may as well back down at once. As well might it come out against allowing its employees to breathe fresh air.

It has long ago been conceded by employers in this country and defended as a free exercise of personal liberty by the courts, that the employees of the Western Union or of any other company whatsoever have the absolute right of organizing, unless a plain and spine condition of their employment is that they shall not belong to any such organization and shall not join a union.

Ex-President Taft, chairman of the National War Labor board, is of the opinion that the Commercial Telegraphers' union is entitled to recognition by the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies. It may as well be made plain to these companies that if they persist in any such attitude as this towards their employees, they are needlessly provoking labor troubles. The companies are discriminating against unionism and thereby departing from the principle laid down by President Wilson that there should be no such discrimination during the war.

It may be necessary to take over the telegraph companies and have them run under government direction as Director McAdoo is running the railroads.

THE HOUSING PROBLEM

The government shows a commendable readiness to assist in solving the local housing problem and to pay liberally for so doing. After a thorough investigation it has found that the housing conditions brought about by government work in Lowell require relief. There is at present a scarcity of tenements for the great influx of people. Property owners and contractors do not care to risk building tenements feeling that most of them might be left vacant after the war. That is a very natural conclusion. Their unwillingness is emphasized by the high cost of labor and material which makes building operations almost prohibitive at the present time where a proper financial return is looked for.

The federal investigators after a very diligent search have concluded that in order to relieve the congestion and provide homes for the workers new buildings are necessary. The proposition is made that the government should pay 75 to 80 per cent of the cost and the city the remainder. That at first sight may seem a liberal offer but at the same time there will be objection on the ground that the city seldom expends money for any such purpose, and that if the government built even a small number of houses it could easily dispose of them after the war, whereas joint ownership would be confusing.

Suppose the government built ten or twenty tenements at a time and rented them only to people employed on government work. It could stop just as soon as the situation seemed to have been reasonably relieved.

It is a well known fact that people will leave old dwellings if they can rent new on reasonable terms. It would not be fair to property owners to erect so many new buildings near the government factories, that many old buildings would be left vacant in other parts of the city, because the former occupants had moved into the new buildings erected by the government.

Such a situation would bring a protest from the parties whose property was left idle. This is the danger line to be avoided in the work of relief and it can be done much better by the government acting independently than if bound up with our city government.

THE TELL-TALE EMPTIES

According to a New York paper there is trouble in store for congressmen over the alleged fact that no less than 26 empty quart whiskey bottles were collected in one day on a single floor of the house office building outside the doors of members.

Note that the bottles were empty. Had it been otherwise, the juniors might have remained silent, but of course only the empties are discarded, especially when, as the juniors allege, the labels indicated that the brands of whiskey used were among the most expensive.

It used to be the privilege of gentlemen to get drunk when and where they pleased; indeed in some cases it was regarded as the mark of a gentleman to get hilariously drunk, but times have changed and no longer does this custom prevail even in old Kentucky.

On the matter having been brought to the attention of Speaker Clark, who has charge of the office building, that gentleman said he did not believe the members were drinking excessively. Continuing, the speaker said:

"In the first place the whiskey that would go in those bottles wouldn't make half a drink all around for the house membership. I've been speaker eight years and I never saw but one man in the house visibly drunk. And he knew enough to vote as he should. They used to have bars in the capitol. In those days members drank because they were too hot or too cold. They used to drink before they made a speech and after they made a speech. Then they used to drink when they had to listen to a speech. Now, there is remarkably little drinking among the members."

We are willing to take Speaker Clark's word for it despite the fact that juniors report finding 160 empties a month. The prohibition members threaten an investigation of such evidence of frugality in a citadel supposed to be dry; but the matter is too trivial to engage the attention of the members in this hot weather and it is reported as very hot in Washington. If it does not lead to reform where reform is necessary, it may result in the displacement of a few juniors who have not learned the virtue of keeping mum.

TO BEAT THE SUBMARINES

The Germans made a specialty of tanks in their recent drive against the allies. It seems that they were very prompt to realize the efficacy of the tank in such a drive as they had undertaken. Consequently the tanks were provided in much greater numbers than they had ever been used by England that invented them. There were tanks of all sizes and for all purposes. The tank, it seems, appealed to the Germans as a great weapon of war, equal almost to the powerful guns in irresistible force. One of the great secrets of the German success in driving back the allies lay in the great number of tanks employed in the attack.

There is here a lesson for the allies and particularly for the United States. We have thus far been very much behind in the matter of submarines. It appears that the American submarine is not a howling success. A considerable number of them have shown such a tendency to go to the bottom and stay there that it has been difficult to raise them once they have submerged. Whether they are any good or not, it is an indisputable fact that they have never been used to accomplish the main purpose of a submarine.

CASTORIA

Now that the German submarines are with us, why would it not be a good idea to capture one of them, bring it to port and take it as a model from which to construct a number of submarines that would render actual service. The great trouble with the allies is that they have allowed Germany to maintain a monopoly of the submarine warfare. Why did not England build submarines equal to those of Germany and with them seek the German naval bases? With such submarines it seems the Dardanelles might easily have been passed and the Turkish fleet destroyed before Germany got hold of it.

It may be said that it is too late now to do anything in this line, but it did not take Germany very long to make a large squadron of tanks. Why should it take the United States so very long to copy the German submarines once we secure a genuine model?

It is high time there was some means of going into the Kiel canal and attacking the German grand fleet where it is held awaiting an opportunity to make a safe dash against England. After four years of war, the submarine still stands almost as menacing as in the first month of its ruthless attack upon shipping. So will it continue until the allies procure some similar method of attacking Germany. No number of destroyers however vigilant can protect shipping against the treacherous submarines. To say that the "sibs" have been beaten or can be beaten by present methods is an exaggeration. Their operations may be hampered and their sinkings partially reduced, but as a steady menace to shipping everywhere the submarine can never be wholly overcome by the methods now in force.

Manufacturers report a huge demand throughout the country for women's overalls. Olive drab, they say, seems to be the generally favored color. Khaki, grays and blues are also taken. "I fell down and hit my head on a stone."

"O, the other fellow," answered Johnny, briskly. "He's gone home with two black eyes."—Pearson's Weekly.

War Gardens?

We couldn't help getting our car bent in on this chapter by a couple of fellas about their "war gardens," going home on the rattler the other night.
"Well, it looks like I'll have a lot of light tonight," said one of them.
"You got a war garden?"
So have I. I've got one in a vacant lot across from the house, and work on it all my spare time.
"How's your coming?"
"Great! I'm having a lot of success in it so far."
"Anything come up yet?"
"Just beginning to sprout, and it looks like fine results already."
"What have you got in your war garden?"
"Oh, some prunies, sweet peas, nasturtiums, poppies, pansies, corn, radishes, cabbages, tomatoes, etc., etc." I think I'll have the prettiest war garden in Lowell when it's out in full bloom."

The Wonders Under the Lid

The war department has lifted the lid from its army transportation activities and lets us see what is beneath. It tells us that 300,000 men are now in France, that 1,000,000 will be there on July 1 and that they are going across at the rate of 15,000 a month. Put an average of 3000 on a ship and this means that 50 transports a month are crossing the ocean. They are not sailing separately, but in vast convoys; yet they are going at the average rate of nearly two every day, producing that bridge of ships of which we have heard much.
No such stupendous transport of troops was ever before attempted in the history of warfare. If no other evidence were available, the success of this great movement would prove that the German submarine campaign has failed. But this is only the beginning.
—Philadelphia Ledger.

Troubles of Bill Jones

Because his name is not Bill Jones, the Worcester Democrat will call him that and thus avoid offending a subscriber. Bill's wife was away on a visit to relatives when Bill decided to surprise her by painting the steps of the only stairway his home affords.
Bill attired himself in carpet slippers and pajamas, leaving his other clothes upstairs. Then he started right at the top and began to paint down. When he had finished the painting he was in a quandary. He could not go upstairs for his clothing without stepping on the wet paint.

After due deliberation he decided he'd get a ladder and make his entry through a second-story window. He went out of doors, slamming the door after him, as he went out. When he had climbed the ladder he found that his wife had fastened down the windows, and then when he tried to enter the house again he learned that the door whence he came was equipped with a spring lock.

Neighbors were casting glances of suspicion by this time, so Bill waited around until dark, then ventured out, broke in a window and got his clothes, counting the minutes he had been mistaken for a burglar.—Kansas City Times.

Mack, Assistant OUT as delegates to attend the state convention to be held at Marlboro. It was the sense of the members that efforts will be made at the state convention that the delegates do their utmost to elect Past Worthy President Edward J. Flannagan as the worthy state president. Brother Flannagan is acting at the present time as worthy vice president of the state acie. A well attended meeting of the C.M. A.C. was held last night at their quarters, President Louis St. Jean presiding. One new member was initiated and one application received. The annual communion of the members of the club will be held Sunday morning at the 7 o'clock mass at St. Jean Baptiste church, and the members are asked to meet at the club rooms at 8:30, prepared to march to the church in a body. There will be a sermon appropriate to the occasion, but the breakfast which has usually followed will be omitted this year.

THE BIG CIRCUS IS COMING TO LOWELL TOMORROW

The circus—Barnum & Bailey's—comes to Lowell tomorrow.

Well! The time is 'most upon us. Tomorrow morning! And those circus folks get up early, too. They'll be here—let's see. About—well, it's hard to say. They'll be here pretty early, though. But they'll not come any too early for the kiddies whose hearts have been going pit-a-pat ever since the first flaming posters were displayed, and who will be on hand at the railroad yards before day-break to welcome the first of the four long trains bearing the circus' good things.

Today the circus is showing in Lawrence and after tonight's performance there will be a rattling and a clattering and a bumping and a booming and a banging and—

"Hey, fellows! Here she is! Here's the circus train!" one in the vanguard of Lowell lads-in-waiting will shout,

WHAT ENACTMENT OF ESPIONAGE ACT MEANS

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Enactment of the espionage act, just become operative, under which stringent action may be taken against disloyalty or sedition, adds the United States to a long list of nations which have been forced by German propaganda or internal disaffection to invoke the extreme powers of law for their existence.

Short shrift is made of persons in Great Britain, France, Italy and the other allied countries who attempt to foment revolution or betray the state to the enemy. Great Britain's colonies under their system of self-government have followed the example of their mother country in fighting disloyalty, recognizing that the liberties of the world depend on victory in the present war.

Amendments to the war precautions regulations of Australia, received in official despatches today, show the far-reaching steps taken by that commonwealth against sedition. The Sinn Féin and the people already on hand will begin to surge around the circus cars and red wagons. Anybody who has ever been around the circus grounds after the trains have arrived, knows what will happen there until 10 o'clock, the hour for starting the parade, arrives. There's going to be a parade, all right, and there will be two performances at 2 and 8 o'clock p. m.

The circus people promise a real circus—the circus of the meadow lot, with a wilderness of red wagons, an army of clowns and women in fluffy skirts riding at breakneck speed, while the ring-master cracks his whip and tumbles fly through the air. And they promise a real parade with all the trimmings for tomorrow morning. About everything of any standing in the natural history will be seen. There will be over a score of elephants and two droves of caravans making the hike under their own steam. Six bands and the tooting calliope will lead the streets with music. There will be bespangled women riding caparisoned horses attended by brave courtiers, and there will be gorgeous floats and tableaux wagons. There will be—But what difference does it make today what there will be tomorrow?

organization is outlawed by name and drastic powers are given to the minister of defence to close clubs or places of resort of the Sinn Féin or other disaffected societies. The regulations said in part:

"Any person who, by word of mouth or in writing, or by any act or deed (a) advocates, incites or encourages disloyalty or hostility to the British empire, or to the cause of the British empire in the present war; or (b) advocates the dismemberment of the British empire, or who says, or does, anything calculated to incite, encourage or assist such disloyalty or hostility, shall be guilty of an offence against the act."

"The minister may direct that any premises used as a place of public resort, or as a club, the use of which, in his opinion, is prejudicial to the safety or the defence of the commonwealth, shall be kept closed."

"Any person who wears or displays any badge, flag, banner, emblem or symbol of a country with which the king is now at war, or any body or association who are disaffected to the British empire, or of the society, association or movement known as Sinn Féin, shall be guilty of an offence against the act."

"Any officer of police and any police thereto authorized in writing by the minister may, for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this regulation, enter, if need be by force, and search and occupy any premises in relation to which a direction has been given under this regulation."

GERMAN PEOPLE WARNED TO PREPARE FOR ANOTHER WINTER OF WAR

NEW YORK, June 5.—The German people are being warned that they must prepare for another winter of war. In announcing that this was probable, Conrad Haussmann, a progressive member of the German reichstag, said in a speech at Stuttgart as reported by the Berlin Tageblatt, that it is necessary to give the warning to prevent public disappointment. Germany, he said, saw through the desire of the Russian upper house to rule the empire. Never, he added, will salvation come from these super-Prussians. The Prussian upper house was aiming to storm against the Kautskian foreign ministry and the imperial government. Haussmann had fallen into the bad graces of the supermen, he was exposed to a concentrated attack of those who considered negotiations during which one pounds the table as the most salutary.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Note:—Below is what the press agents of the different theatres say of the current attractions and of others to come later.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"Heart of the Sunset," a specialty one picture, will be shown for the final time at the B. F. Keith theatre, this afternoon and evening. Fashioned after Rex Beach's novel of the same name, it is a particularly interesting story, beautifully pictorialized and with acting in it rather above the ordinary.

Herbert Heyes, a former Lowell favorite, in the part of the Texas ranger, is finely cast, and Anna Q. Nilsson as "Alaine Austin" is also much liked. The other parts have been carefully looked after. Specially good is the pompous Mexican general, Longorio, who seeks to be president. A second feature is "Fast Company," a Bluebird film, with Franklyn Farnum and Juanita Hansen in the leading roles. Farnum's Hansen in the leading roles. Farnum's Hansen in the leading roles.

Tickets may be bought all day tomorrow at the Liggett Drug Store, at regular prices.

him, who is almost a double of Douglas Fairbanks, has a congenial part. The story is liberally sprinkled with comedy. The heartiest-pathos pictures are timely and as usual very great favorites. A complete change of bill to-morrow.

THE STRAND

Today offers the last opportunity of seeing Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in their latest screen output, "Cyclone Higgins, D.D.," the other feature that concludes today, is Kitty Gordon in "The Interloper." If you haven't seen these films, don't miss them. They're great. It is needless to say that the Lowell Memorial day parade pictures are creating by and of favorable comment. You can readily recognize your friends, and perhaps yourself on the screen. The high school regiment, the Boy Scouts, with Scout Commissioner and Scout Executive Williams in the lead, the members of the police department, and all of the others. The "march" into the crowds along the line of march is also wonderfully good. Don't fail to see this picture and "See yourself as others see you."

Tomorrow the bill for the last three days of the week will include Peggy Hyland in "Peg of the Pirates," an absorbing story of an adventurous beauty and some bold, bad men. The other feature will be Made Kennedy in "The Fair Pretender." The usual new Pathe Weekly and a comedy will also be shown. Remember it's always cool, clean and comfortable at The Strand.

ROYAL THEATRE

"The Seal of Silence," a Blue Ribbon feature released on April 29, offers exhibitors the unbeatable box office combination of Earle Williams with Grace Darmond in a strong dramatic story. "The Seal of Silence" is the strongest drama that Earle Williams has had in recent months and can be exploited to the limit for it will move more than please any class of audience. "The Seal of Silence" contains three distinct story threads, each theme almost powerful enough in itself to form the basis of a feature, all skillfully woven into one absorbing five-part drama that holds the interest from the first flash in the final straight drama of the society type with some well timed interpolations of heart interest, pathos and refreshing humor. "The Seal of Silence" tells how a cold, selfish woman vents her spite upon her husband, an eminent physician, by keeping from him knowledge of the realization of his life's greatest desire, the possession of a son, how she pledges to secrecy, the only witness of the boy's birth, a beautiful young girl, the doctor's laboratory assistant, now the girl who loves and is loved by the doctor brings the boy to the doctor's home after the death of the mother and awakens suspicion in the doctor's mind, how she struggles between love and honor and how, after a near tragedy, the doctor learns the truth, makes for a photoplay that builds up a series of interesting episodes and culminates in a stirring climax that leaves everyone happy.

This drama will be shown Wednesday and Thursday only, afternoon and evening at the Royal theatre. Besides is booked, the 18th episode of "The House of Hate," the Pathe serial featuring Pearl White and Antonio Moreno, a new Keystone comedy and other attractions.—Adv.

LAKEVIEW PARK

When you come to the end of a long, hot day and no place to go, try Lakeview. Archie Conley will be glad to see you at the dance hall, where the floor is smoothest and the breezes coolest and Miner-Doyle's 10-piece orchestra, aided by Barney Horan's singing of the latest dancing music will make you forget the tribulations that the day may have brought. Bowling, pool, roller coaster and all other amusements running full blast, afternoon and evening.

THE KASINO

Hoover says save money—conserve within reason. At your very door you have the Kasino for dancing every night in the week. It's so accessible that six cent fares are absolutely dispensed with. Moreover, it occupies a position on a natural elevation exposed to favoring breezes in hot weather. When the weather is cold, protecting curtains are always available. Right temperatures contribute to good dancing.

NEW MOTORCYCLES FOR POLICE DEPARTMENT

Four new motorcycles will be purchased within a week or two for the police department, but the mayor has not yet made up his mind what type of machine he will buy. To a Sun reporter this morning His Honor said that the police department has on its hands two old machines. He said he will call for bids and the dealer who will present the highest bid for the purchase of the old cars, will be favored with the sale of the four new machines. In order to gather some information regarding the best motorcycle on the market, the mayor has written letters to officials of large cities as well as to officials of the Metropolitan Park police, but it seems that the replies have not been satisfactory for every one is boasting the type of machine he is using. The mayor expects to equip the new cars with first aid kits and he would like to have the machines in operation within a couple of weeks.

Ruined Her Clothes

Miss Minnie Breen of 17 Florence avenue has filed a bill with the city solicitor for $61, claiming that a few days ago she was "sprayed" by the moth gang. According to Miss Breen's story her clothes were literally covered with arsenate of lead, which is being used by the moth exterminating company in spraying the city. The accident, she claims, occurred in Pawtucketville. Her bill is partly as follows: Bag, $5; hat, $9; suit, $45; and miscellaneous, $2.

Swimming Pool

The swimming pool in the Merrimack river off the Pawtucket boulevard, which was established by ex-Mayor O'Donnell last year, will be reopened this year. Mayor Thompson stated this morning that some time this week he will appoint an officer for duty at the pool and he expects that by the early part of next week the "kiddies" may enjoy their dip with police protection.

Officer Suspended

After being given a hearing and being found guilty of violating rule 13 of the police manual, Patrolman James J. Noonan has been suspended without pay for a period of five months by Mayor Thompson.

STREET APPROPRIATIONS AND STREET WORK

Men who have occasion to use them a great deal assert that Lowell's streets were never in worse condition than at present, and visiting autoists say "Amen."

"What is being done with the big appropriation allowed the street department this year?" "Fred" at us over the phone this morning and we asked Mr. Morse about it. Mr. Morse is the commissioner of streets and highways and, in reply to our query, stated that the paving of Back Central street from Church street to the corner of the square, the paving of Marginal street, and Thorneville street from Summer street to Appleton street will be the only new work done this year.

"The policy of doing away with new street work during the war," said Mr. Morse, has been adopted by practically every city in the country, and the same policy will apply to sewer work, except in very urgent cases.

The fact remains, however, that when the budget was made out the commissioner of streets and highways was allowed an appropriation of $140,000 for street maintenance, and those who complain about the condition of streets here are more interested in street maintenance than in new streets or new work.

But Mr. Morse says he does not think he will be able to get by on that amount, though it is rather difficult to discover where any of it has been expended as yet.

In addition to the $140,000 for street maintenance, the commissioner was also allowed $75,000 for new work, meaning paving and macadamizing.

The commissioner stated this morning that he has now $200,000 in the city's treasury, and the weekly payroll averages about $200.

Asked the extent of street work now going on, Mr. Morse said there is a gang of men employed in black paving back Central street from Church street to Bosford square. As soon as this job is completed the men will be shifted over to Thorneville street and later to Marginal street. Employees of the department are also busy putting edgelines in various parts of the city, while others are redoing patch work here and there. A portion of Westford street will be patched and rolled, while a portion of Stevens street will be repaved. In Broadway there will be some patching done.

"The high cost of labor and material is something terrible," concluded Mr. Morse, and that's the best we can

AMERICAN ADMIRATION FOR THE ITALIANS

By Associated Press.
AMERICAN SEAPLANE TRAINING CAMP, Italy. (By mail).—American admiration for Italian efficiency and hospitality is one of the sentimental facts which has developed here since the establishment of this camp on the edge of an inland lake by joint agreement of the navy department of the two nations.

"We can't say enough nice things about our Italian friends from any point of view," explained the American commander of the students. "Their efficiency is only equalled by their capacity for friendship. Their hospitality is unbounded. They don't seem to be able to do enough for us."

"This is certainly no place for boobblers," declared one of the young ensigns who, having obtained his brevet at Pensacola, Florida, has come down here with a group of others to learn the Italian water machines. "The Italian instructor pilots are all crack men and the Italian mechanics are the most competent crowd I have met. They have the sixth sense, all right. They can detect a defective motor when the machine is two thousand feet high and flying at eighty miles an hour. When a man learns to fly here he can fly anywhere in any machine."

The training camp here is one of the many dozens that have been established all over Italy in connection with Italy's ambition to conquer in the air. When Senator Pio Foa complained in the Italian senate that there were so many aviation camps in Italy that ground useful for grain cultivation was being unduly occupied, he was not very far wide of the mark.

For the past two years Italian officers have been insisting that victory would come only through the air, and these camps are the result of the effort in that direction. According to Commissioner General of Aeronautics Chiusa, Italy today has 40,000 men in various branches of machine manufacture.

That American aviators are at last coming into Italy first for training and later for fighting is subject of satisfaction to all Italians and particularly to the Italian Aviation corps.

As a mark of Italy's pride in having Americans to train, one of the navy's most distinguished air machine officers was instructed to build the camp. He is technically in charge of the camp, with an American command to control the training of the American students.

The work of turning out men for active service either as observers or pilots, has gone on rapidly. The big problem is to keep the men flying, to give them the practice necessary to make all round men. Thirty hours in the air is generally required for each man. This seems like a small amount of time until it is realized that this means at least 120 flights of 15 minutes each and that it is not always easy to give each man as much as one flight of 15 minutes a day. Flying is like farming. It is regulated by the weather.

Seaplane flying is quite a different art from that of so-called landplane flying. In both the landing is difficult, but to seaplane flying the landing cannot be made without danger if there is mist hanging over the water or if the water's surface is mirrorlike, since in either case the flier cannot judge distances and in no time preliminary to landing he may hit the water too soon, drown himself and wreck a valuable machine. Further, every condition varies according to the type of machine being used.

TODAY'S SHORTEST STORY

OUT!

ALLIED LINES STIFFEN

where on the new salient. North of Moulins-Sous-Touvent, northwest of Soissons, the French have improved their positions, gaining some hotly contested terrain from the Germans. Enemy attacks against the belt, east although strong are being localized. Near Longpont the Germans were able to penetrate the forest, but French counter attacks threw them out.

Heavy Enemy Artillery Fire

If they follow the tactics employed in the Picardy and Flanders battles, the Germans probably will make very strong efforts to improve locally important positions before they finally give up their efforts to advance. The enemy artillery is very heavy north of the line to the Oureq, on the western wing, and around Rheims, on the east, which still holds out.

Americans on Five Sectors

In addition to the present battle, American troops are actively engaged on four sectors and preparing to enter the front line on a fifth—Flanders, northwest of Toul, east of Lunerville, north of St. Mihiel along the Meuse, and west of Montdidier, in Picardy. General Pershing's men had given a good account of themselves before the entrance of American units into the fighting east and west of Chateau-Thierry.

Expect New Drive Through Amiens

With the halting of the offensive on the new salient, military observers expect the Germans will make another attempt to reach the channel ports through Amiens and crush the Anglo-French forces before the full strength of the American effort can be brought into play. The supreme war council has expressed confidence in the situation and the ability of General Foch to combat the enemy's plans. Premier Clemenceau has told the French chamber of deputies that the future depends on American help.

GERMANS REPULSED IN RAIDS

Fighting operations on the western front elsewhere than south of the Aisne, are at a minimum. There has been active artillery firing on the Belgian sector and on parts of the British front, where the Germans have been repulsed in raids north of Kemmel, in Flanders, and between Albert and Arras in Picardy.

GERMANS CONTINUE LOCAL ATTACKS ON MAIN FRONT

PARIS, June 5.—The Germans continued local attacks last evening and during the night on the main front, the war office announced today. Attempts made on the French lines at Carlepoint wood, Dommiers, Corey and in the neighborhood of Chery, failed. In the region north of Corey an action by the French infantry, assisted by tanks, repulsed the French line on the borders of the forest.

The statement follows: "Local attacks continued last evening and during the night. On the northern outskirts of Carlepoint wood two German attacks were arrested by the fire of French machine guns. Other efforts in the region of Autrechies, east of Dommiers and near Corey, also were broken up. North of Corey an infantry action, supported by tanks, enabled the French to rectify their line on the outskirts of the forest.

"South of the Oureq the Germans made violent attacks against Chery and southeast of this locality. French troops broke all their assaults, inflicting serious losses on the adversary.

"The artillery fighting continues to be very spirited north of the Aisne and in the region of Rheims."

GEN. PERSHING'S REPORT ON AMERICAN SUCCESSES

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A terse announcement is made in General Pershing's evening communique of the actions announced yesterday by the French war office in which Americans by a brilliant counter-attack repulsed the Germans near Chateau-Thierry, and French and American troops drove back an enemy force which had crossed the Marne farther south.

The communique says: "In the fighting northwest of Chateau-Thierry our troops broke up an attempt of the enemy to advance south through Neuilly woods and to the north of the woods. On the Marne front, a German battalion which had crossed at Jaulgonne, was counter-attacked by French and American troops and forced to retreat to the right bank. It sustained severe losses in killed and prisoners.

"Patrolling was active in Picardy and Lorraine, we shelled the enemy positions, using gas."

SUCCESSES REPORTED FROM AMERICAN PATROLS

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Tuesday, June 4 (By the Associated Press).—In an encounter between an American patrol and a party of 17 Germans on the Lunerville front, early today, three Germans are reported to have been killed. Another patrol destroyed an enemy concrete observation post.

German guns and airplanes were most active on the Lunerville sector today. The artillery showered the area behind the American lines with explosive, shrapnel and gas shells to a degree unknown for many weeks.

GEN. PERSHING'S COMMUNIQUE REPORTS PATROL ENGAGEMENT

WASHINGTON, June 5.—General Pershing reported today the contact between American and German patrols in which three Germans were killed. News of the engagement came first in press despatches.

The communique reads: "Number 21—Section B: On the night of June 3 to June 4, one of our patrols operating in Lorraine destroyed the concrete observation posts in the enemy's line. During the same night and in the same district, an encounter took place between American and German patrols. Three Germans are reported to have been killed."

GERMAN ATTEMPT TO RAID BRITISH LINES CHECKED

LONDON, June 5.—German troops this morning attempted to raid the British line southwest of Morlandcourt, in the region east of Amiens, the war office announced today. Although the enemy was supported by heavy artillery fire, he was repulsed and left prisoners in the hands of the British.

LOWELL BOYS BOSTON COLLEGE GRADUATES

Two Lowell boys were graduated from Boston college this afternoon at the annual commencement exercises held at the college grounds in Newton. Thomas F. Pyne and John C. Sargent were the Lowell men to receive their sheepskins.

Thomas F. Pyne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pyne of 823 Central street. He was graduated from the Butler grammar and Lowell high schools, completing his course in the latter institution in 1914. In September of the same year he entered Boston college. He has been prominent in various activities connected with the institution, being treasurer of the senior sodality and president of the Lowell Boston College club. He received his degree of bachelor of arts at this afternoon's exercises.

Mr. Pyne was called upon to register for the national army today, but he expects to volunteer for some branch of the service within a short time. He will be the second member of his family to do so, for his brother, Joseph G. Pyne, enlisted in the naval reserves recently. He was formerly a member of the high school faculty.

John C. Sargent is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Sargent of 122 Coburn street. He received his grammar school education in this city and in 1910 entered the Lowell high school. He remained there two years and then entered Boston College high school from which he was graduated in 1914. In the fall of the same year he began his four-year course at Boston college. In both his college and preparatory school career Mr. Sargent was prominent in athletics. He played on the Boston college varsity football team for two years and played on all his class teams in both baseball and football. He was a member of the B. C. BIG Y.M.C.I. TRACK MEET SATURDAY

The big Y.M.C.I. track meet which was postponed Memorial day on account of weather conditions will be held on the South common Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock and the indications are that it will prove one of the best held in this city for some time. The meet was originally planned for Shedd park, but difficulty in laying out a track and having the place roped off caused Director Fred Wynn and his committee to make the shift to the South common.

The postponement has brought about many new entrants. One of the latest to agree to participate is Jim Andromeda, the well known Greek all round athlete. He will appear in the shot put, the high and broad jumps, and several other events. Many other prominent track men will appear, including Luke McManis, Jimmie Liston, Fred Cuto, J. Maloney, Lieut. Joseph Riley, Mike Haggerty, Mike Wrenn, Keith, Crowe, Melane and numerous others.

The Y.M.C.I. has the C.Y.M.L. and High school will have representatives in the various events. The meet is open to all and entry blanks may be secured at 230 High street or 31 Clark street.

The general public is invited and no admission fee will be charged.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Union Blues are still keeping up the good work. Their two latest conquests were defeating the fifth grade of St. Peter's school, 14 to 1, and the Chippewas, 8 to 2. The feature of both games was the work of W. Reagan and Muskatalo for the winners.

The Lincoln A.C. baseball team of Lawrence would like to cross bats with any team of Lowell from 14 to 16 years old. For game, telephone 8584 any night between 8.30 and 9.

LOWELL FISH AND GAME CLUB HONOR ROLL

The last meeting of the Lowell Fish and Game association before the vacation season was held last evening. It was expected that a service flag would be unfurled, but it was decided to postpone it until a future date. The honor list of the club included the following names which were read by the secretary:

Dead, Ralph W. Tewksbury and Arthur J. Langley, and active in the service, Joseph J. Ahearn, John C. Avila, Algen F. Barris, Maurice Bosdonoff, Frederick K. Christos, William P. S. Coppen, Louis Descheneaux, William Devanis, Albert C. Goss, Walter C. Goss, Albert X. Hamel, Paul H. Hartford, William J. Hession, Roseau F. Haynes, Dr. C. B. Livingston, William H. McKinnon, Fred J. Meilen, Nathan C. Moulton, Daniel C. O'Dea, Jackson Palmer, George E. Pernant, Gerald Silk, John T. Sparks and J. J. McGlinchey.

New members admitted to the association last evening included Otto Hoekmeyer, Frank W. Brown, Frank S. Hunt, John E. Dunlay, Royal V. Gilson, W. M. P. Gibbons, George S. Newcomb, Maynard Pierce, Louis Regnier, Henry R. Deater, Harry E. Whittell, John W. Geary, Charles C. Dodge of Cambridge and Otis Haven of Burlington.

A very pleasing feature of the meeting was furnished by George L. Hutton who, in a reminiscent way, told of the habits of the rainbow trout with which brook trout at Lowell have been stocked. The rainbow trout is a native of California and it was there, within the golden gates, that Mr. Hutton studied the habits of the speckled beauties. His talk was a very interesting one and club members hope to hear more from him at some later date.

If you want quick returns try a classified ad in The Sun, Lowell's central newspaper.

CAMP NEWS

INDIRECT MACHINE GUN FIRE EFFECTIVE—LIEUT. CLARKE GIVEN TWO YEAR TERM

CAMP DEVENS, June 5.—So far have the men of the 76th Division driven the enemy in the Still River area, that yesterday afternoon it was necessary for the division to bring its artillery further forward. And it was under the eyes of their commanding general that the artillery was moved up. Guns drawn by horses, mounted on motor trucks and heavy guns pulled by motor power were all brought forward. All three of the artillery regiments were represented.

The maneuver was successfully carried out and things were kept hot for with even while the batteries were moving. Early yesterday afternoon Holiday House, the main objective of the division, was captured. Troops advanced at the run and occupied the enemy positions, after a machine gun barrage had peppered his strongholds.

Indirect Machine Gun Fire

The theory of indirect fire by machine guns was not new to the officers, but it made some of them gasp a little to see the national army machine gunners drop a veritable stream of bullets into a house from a position where they could scarcely see the target in front of them. The bullets made a sieve of a perfectly good house. Then the infantry charged the position and took it with scarcely a casualty. When Holiday House fell the trailblazers began to move forward.

It was hot work. The artillerymen carried their full equipment on their backs, but they were on the jump every minute, perspiration rolling down their faces in almost no time at all a battery of the 302d Field Artillery had crossed Still River.

One could not forget his mother on this day and everybody is encouraged to write to the best friend he has ever known or ever will know.

I am sending you a little book which the Y.M.C.A. has given me and I hope you will enjoy it. One certainly misses his mother after being away from home so long as I have and it makes a fellow appreciate what a home means. Everything is going along fine with me and I am in the best of health. The weather is fair and we see more sun now than usually. It is very nice over here when the weather is fair, but it is very seldom fair.

Well, dear mother, I will have to close now and kiss you good-bye. With lots of love from Your loving son, HOWARD.

Serjt. Wallace

Serjt. John J. Wallace of Co. M, 101st Infantry, in France, writes as follows to his mother, Mrs. Caroline Wallace, 9 Brickett avenue:

May 8, 1918.
Dear Ma: After a long delay, I have at last the chance to write to you. I am well, although lately I have been kept pretty busy, but of course, that is to be expected. That is what we came over here for. After a long search I have been rewarded by locating Battery 7 of Lowell. I saw all the boys from the square and was crowded with the meeting. I received a box from the fellows around Lincoln square and it contained cigars and other very useful articles. They were very welcome and I am sure you will like them. So you see I might be getting on worse.

I am receiving your mail pretty regularly, but I think that ship that you sent the box over on must have been one of those which were sunk.

Your loving son, JOHN J. WALLACE.

Priv. Napoleon Breton

Private Napoleon Breton of the U. S. Aero squadron in France has written the following letter to his mother, Mrs. Victor Breton of 21 Varney street:

My Dearest Mother—I am now taking a little pleasure in writing to you this day, for this is Mothers' day. I went to church this morning and I prayed so that you will not worry too much about me, because I am getting along fine over here in France. I spent most of my spare time in a private family and once in a while I have supper with my comrades. They are real good boys and they make me feel quite at home.

I am enjoying the best of health and am hoping you are the same. You sent the letter which I received much sooner than others for I am sending it by special delivery on account of Mothers' day. I am now at the Y.M.C.A. and there is plenty of paper so the boys can write home to their mothers. We are being served hot chocolate, cake, cigars, and different other good things to make us comfortable.

Well mother I hope you are not missing me very much for I will be back soon. I received your picture and found it a very good one. I will always keep it close to my heart. I will now close my letter hoping you enjoyed yourself with its reading. They say the 12th of May. Good luck to you and all the family.
Your loving son, NAPOLEON.

Priv. Leo Lambert

The following is a Mothers' day letter sent by Private Leo Lambert of the Air service in France to his mother, Mrs. Florence Lambert of 15 Rockdale avenue:

er and the guns had been lifted from the motor trucks and were ready for more business from the depth of well-camouflaged gun pits. As these guns were placed in position, horse-drawn guns of the 301st Artillery began to arrive. These were followed by the guns of the 303d Heavy Artillery, motor drawn.

Under the eyes of Maj. Gen. Harry F. Hodges and his staff and the other members of the staff and field officers' school this movement ran like clock-work and drew the praise of all who watched it.

Friday will be a big day in the Still River area. Not only will the maneuvers be interesting, but the American Society of Engineers which is holding a convention in Worcester, will visit the camp to watch the men of the 76th Division in action.

Lieut. Clarke Gets Two Years

The sentence imposed on Lieut. William Clarke of New Haven, who was found guilty of passing spurious checks in several New England cities last March, has created considerable comment. He will be dishonorably discharged from the army and will serve two years at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. He was arrested in Providence last April and was tried by general court-martial on May 6. He is the first officer from this camp to be sentenced to prison.

In special orders issued yesterday Battalion Sergt. Maj. Farnold E. Hulise of the 301st Infantry is assigned to active duty as second lieutenant in the Sanitary Corps, N. A. Lieut. Hulise lives at 28 Folger street, Cambridge. He is a graduate of Harvard and also of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

One of the largest list of promotions yet to be posted was issued yesterday. Nearly 40 men are made sergeants and corporals in the Quartermaster Corps, N. A. (Department of Public Utilities), and more than 150 privates are made privates, first-class.

LOCAL HIBERNIANS ENLARGE QUARTERS

The Central council of the local Hibernians has taken over the quarters formerly occupied by the Club, an association composed of local mill men and others, in the Howe building, and these quarters will be used to supplement the quarters already occupied by the Hibernians on the top floor of the building.

The final deal was put through Monday evening by the officers of the Central council. All the fixtures and furniture were purchased and these include pool tables, baths, etc.

The addition of these new quarters will give the Hibernians one of the best homes of any organization in the city and will aid the order to augment its already extensive work in Lowell.

Next Sunday a class initiation will be held in Hibernian hall and approximately 200 new members are to be initiated. A degree was conferred on Patrick J. Murphy, captain, has been rehearsing consistently for the past several weeks to perfect the exercises and meetings are being held every evening this week to arrange final details. The initiation will take place at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon and the occasion will be marked by the presence of state and national officials, including Patrick F. Canavan, national vice president, of Clinton; Richard Dwyer, state president, of South Boston, and James Harold, state vice president, of Waltham.

CROWD SOUGHT TO LYNCH GERMAN

PORTLAND, Me., June 5.—Charles A. Miller, a German, fled to escape lynching after being knocked down by Samuel Shorr on Fore street yesterday. An angry mob gathered round the fugitive, who dodged into a doorway, and was assisted through a shop and out of the back door by the proprietor.

"Well, what do you think now about that German driver?" Miller had asked Shorr.

"O, that's nothing; the allies will lick 'em proper before they get through," replied Shorr.

"No, they won't. The Germans are too strong and too smart for the allies," said Miller.

Shorr shot out and the conversation ceased abruptly as Miller toppled over on the sidewalk. The crowd which gathered quickly and learned of the affair was ready to wind up Miller's career, but search for a short gave him time to escape. He had a small show at 813 Fore street, and Miller has one at 314, run of late by his wife, as he is registered as an alien enemy and has not been allowed to cross to the south side of the street since the new rules went into force.

Miller's shop is across the street from the Canadian and British recruiting offices and it is said he has urged young men not to enlist, so that recruits have been forbidden by officers to enter his shop.

PRIEST INVENTS POWERFUL AIRSHIP

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., June 5.—The Rev. T. J. Glynn, a Catholic priest, has invented a large, powerful, triple propeller airship. It is kite-shaped and much larger and much more powerful than the machines now in use. The planes and hinge body are made entirely of tin sheeting. The main propeller is mounted directly on the shaft of the motor; the other two propellers are set on bracket bearings a few feet below on each side of the main propeller and are driven by an endless chain geared to the main motor shaft.

AMERICANS DRIVE HUNS BACK IN BRILLIANT BAYONET ATTACK

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Tuesday, June 4. (By The Associated Press.) The American troops thrown into the present great battle on the front northwest of Chateau-Thierry, in a brilliant bayonet attack drove the Germans from Neuilly wood, in which they were attempting to establish themselves after occupying the village of Neuilly-la-Poterie in severe fighting.

The Germans poured a heavy machine gun fire into the American ranks, but the Americans rushed forward and destroyed the hastily erected machine gun positions on the edge of the woods. Continuing their advance they engaged the Germans at close quarters, and cleared them entirely from their positions, driving them back upon the ruined village.

All Huns Killed or Captured
In a sharp combat, marked by the fierceness of the allied machine gun fire, French and American troops side by side almost wiped out small German forces which had reached the left bank of the Marne near Juvionne, west of Chateau-Thierry. Most of the enemy survivors were rounded up in small groups and made prisoners.

On Monday in the attack against the Germans at Neuilly, the Americans drove them back on the front of a narrow salient. The ground was cleared of the enemy and the Americans are now holding their position there. The American losses, according to the latest reports available, were exceedingly slight, most of them resulting from shell fire.

Prevent Huns Crossing Marne
The first Americans to enter the battle zone were troops of a machine gun battalion. They rode on trucks during all of Friday night and arrived at their new position on Saturday morning. These were the troops which repulsed the enemy forces which attempted to cross the Marne river.

The machine gunners were stationed within a certain town and began operations by pointing the muzzles of their weapons through broken walls, bushes and holes knocked in the side of houses.

Guns Skillfully Hidden
The guns were skillfully hidden and the Germans were unable to locate them. The Germans shelled the town heavily and the Americans took positions accordingly. Later on the enemy entered the outskirts only to be pounded by the allied artillery.

The correspondent today went over the battle area and interviewed many of the American and French soldiers. They are in excellent spirits and confident that the line will hold, although the worst probably is yet to come, as the Germans have not been able to bring up much heavy artillery. Until then probably, the outcome cannot be determined.

Battle Over Hill Country
The battle is raging over a hilly country, where crops are growing and there are no prepared trenches. When the Americans entered the line the fighting was shifting back and forth like a seething maelstrom. The Americans each dug in and they went at it like experienced hands. One of the American officers said:

"The Germans are now learning that the Americans are as resourceful as any. The Germans do not like the Americans because they can dig in with one hand and fight with the other, and smile at the same time."

sufficient to give me a clear insight to the work and then I branched forth as the seventh son of the seventh son and people in Canada. Then I found that by telling a person that he or she was suffering from some ailment which would be cured by following my directions and using my preparation, that the profits could be increased; but remember, I never applied the medicine which did I treat a person as a physician. The stuff that I gave was some harmless thing like glycerine and water, water colored with coloring used in cakes, etc., which would never hurt a person, whether taken internally or externally.

"Do big people fall for it? Well, I should say so. I know a well known lawyer who, then he got it the same way, but he never told me. I was to cure his wife and made him come across with the money before I would touch the case and finally, when I agreed to start after receiving half of my fee, I walked out of his office and was not seen by him until the police gathered me in. In fact, he appeared for me in court. He didn't blame him."

"They got me right in Worcester some years ago. Ninety-two cases are all they had against me. I entered a plea of guilty when they launched them and got a sentence of three months and a fine of $100. Coming in the fact that I did not have the coin of the realm, I served six months in all."

Laplante read the palms of a number present, laughed and joked, and when he was starting for the court room said: "Now I am going to get my medicine."

"Do you?" he shot back, and his interrogator's answer was in the negative. "I don't either," said Laplante, "it is all fake, humbug or whatever you want to call it, but people want to be humbugged and fall for it. A number of years ago I got the bug that there might be something in it, and visited palmists and fortune tellers on about 100 occasions. I paid, but could not be convinced that there was anything to it. I saw the easy money that these people were making and decided that I was entitled to collect some of it. My experience as a victim was

HOARDING SUGAR

Charge Against Prominent Hartford Couple

HARTFORD, June 5.—Something of a sensation followed the arrest yesterday of Asst. Sec. John H. Vreeland of the Scottish Union and National Insurance company and his wife in this city on federal warrants charging sugar hoarding. They were released by United States Marshal Timothy J. Hawley upon their own recognizance, pending their appearance this afternoon for a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Richard F. Carroll.

The next session of the United States court at which a grand jury will sit will be held in New Haven next September. It is declared that the district attorney is in possession of evidence that the Vreelands had on hand 95 pounds of sugar in unopened cartons and seven or eight pounds of sugar in another tin container. The Vreelands are prominent in Hartford society.

COTTON MILL OPERATIVES ASK WAGE INCREASE

The cotton mill operatives of this city have presented their demand to the mill officials for an increase in wages of 15 per cent to go into effect June 17. The demand was made through the United Textile Workers of America and it reached the mill officials this morning. One of the mill agents, in conversation with a reporter of The Sun, stated that it will be a few days before the matter is considered for a number of mill officials are away at present.

The letter sent to the mill officials by the officers of the United Textile Workers of America follows:

New York, May 28, 1918.
Mr. Stephen T. Whittier, secretary, Cotton Manufacturers Association, Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir: At a meeting of the executive board of the United Textile Workers of America held May 27, it was unanimously voted to request an increase in wages of 15 per cent for the operatives employed in the cotton mills in Lowell—said increase to go into effect June 17, 1918.

This is a part of a similar request for a general increase in wages of 15 per cent that is being presented to the cotton manufacturers of the country by the United Textile Workers of America.

Trusting for a favorable reply to this request at your earliest convenience, I am,

Very truly yours,
JOHN GOLDEN, General President.
SARAH A. CONROY, Sec.-Treasurer.

FIVE KILLED IN RAILROAD WRECK NEAR BURLINGTON, VT., TODAY

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 5.—A collision between a local passenger train and a light engine on the Central Vermont railroad between this city and Winooski, today, killed five persons and injured several others. Seven persons were removed to hospitals. None of the dead were passengers. The accident occurred in a tunnel when the south bound local from Cambridge for Burlington crashed head-on into the light engine. It was claimed that the accident was due to a mistake in orders for the passenger train, which ought to have been held at Winooski, until the light engine passed north.

All of the dead were railway employees. They were:
Eli Griffin, Burlington, engineer on the light locomotive; Fred Benway, Burlington, fireman on light locomotive; Frank Andrews, Essex Junction, engineer of local train; Henry Hostler, Essex Junction, brakeman on local; Victor Companion, Burlington, yard employee.
Two of the seven persons sent to hospitals were passengers, but it was said they were not seriously injured. It was thought, however, that several of the others were fatally hurt.

Companion and several railway employees who were among the injured, were riding on the pilot of the light engine, which was proceeding through the tunnel with orders it was said, to meet the local at Winooski. The two locomotives hit with such force that a steampipe exploded and the men were scalded.

An increase in wages of 10 cents an hour, the increase to go into effect July 1. This action was taken in accordance with the increase of ten cents an hour recently granted the bricklayers. The meeting was presided over by President Michael Healy and routine business was transacted.

Carpenters' Union
A regular meeting of the members of the Carpenters' union was held in Carpenters hall last evening, with President Sanford P. Leary in the chair. Routine business was transacted and the election of officers took place. The election will be held at the next regular meeting.

Leather Workers' Union
A feature of the regular meeting of the Leather Workers' union, which was held at its quarters in Central street last evening, was the nomination of officers. The meeting was presided over by President Joseph Moran and routine business was transacted. The election of officers will be held June 13.

LOWELL CASES BEFORE THE SUPERIOR COURT

George Parker, John P. Bell and Townsend Adams was arraigned before Judge Callahan at the criminal session of the superior court in East Cambridge today on complaints charging them with breaking and entering the store of Rose Velette on April 8 and the larceny therefrom of cigars, cigarettes and other articles. Each entered a plea of guilty and Parker was sentenced to nine months in the house of correction and Bell to eight months and Adams to seven months at the same institution.

Adelia M. Foote and Edmund S. Foote were charged with receiving stolen property, the former entering a plea of nolo and the latter one of guilty. The case against Mrs. Foote was placed on file on the payment of $15 expenses, while Foote was fined $20.

Douglas R. Gray was found guilty of lewd and lascivious cohabitation, but the case was placed on file.

John J. Riley and Charles F. Mullen pleaded guilty to breaking into the store of James J. McCausland, John English and Edward R. Morris, corner of Coburn and West Third streets, on May 9 and the larceny of seven quarts of gin, two quarts of whiskey, six half pints of whiskey, six half pints of brandy and $5 in money. Both were sentenced to the reformatory.

James A. Nash was charged with robbery originally, but the district attorney after investigating the case changed the complaint to that of larceny and Nash entered a plea of nolo to that complaint, and the defendant was placed on probation. George McClellan, a lumberjack from New Hampshire, came to Lowell on March 25 and later reported to the police that he had been robbed by Nash at a local hotel, claiming that a large sum of money, a bankbook, watch and knife had been taken. After making an investigation the man's bankbook was found in the hotel safe, some money and the watch were found in another part of the hotel and owing to these circumstances the district attorney recommended probation.

IN POLICE COURT
George Coronios appeared in the police court this morning on a complaint charging him with violating the labor laws by employing a boy under 16 years in his barber shop after six o'clock at night. A fine of $10 was imposed.
Arthur Marsheldron was found guilty of drunkenness and unlawfully driving a team belonging to Thomas F. Daly and sentenced to three months in jail.

FRANCO-BRITISH LINES STIFFEN GERMANS HELD AT ALL POINTS

German masses no longer hurl themselves at the allied lines along extended fronts. The momentum of the Teuton advance of last week appears to have exhausted itself in striking the yielding lines of the French and British, which have now stiffened and are holding the foe except for insignificant gains here and there, especially along the front running south from the neighborhood of Soissons to Chateau-Thierry. The struggle apparently is changing from a war of movement to a war of position.

ATTACK ISOLATED POINTS

Official reports show that the Germans are launching their assaults on Chezy, Corey and near Domme, isolated points of vantage. These attacks were, roughly, from five to seven miles apart, along the line which includes ground where the Americans have established themselves and have fought the Germans to a standstill. The French official statement says that the Teuton attacks were all repulsed.

BRITISH REPULSE GERMANS

The report of operations along the British front fails to show any notable activity on the part of the Germans. At Moriancourt, between the Ancre and the Somme, south of Albert, the Germans, supported by heavy artillery fire, attempted to raid the British positions but were repulsed, leaving prisoners behind.

GREAT WORK BY AMERICANS

Details of the fighting in which American units have taken part show that General Pershing's men have gone into battle with a spirit which is magnificent. In their defense of the bridges across the Marne, they repulsed the enemy in a decisive manner and with their rifle fire, prevented the Germans from making further serious attempts to cross the Marne.

American machine gun fire has converted the northern part of Chateau-Thierry into No Man's Land. The Germans unable to hold their positions under the storm of bullets, poured into them by the Americans, have withdrawn to the outskirts of that sector.

Replenish No Gains

Allied defensive measures have broken the force of the German offensive in the salient south of the Ailette and the enemy is now making only strong local attacks. Although recording "successful engagements" in its latest reports, Berlin, for the first time since May 27, does not claim any new advances.

Americans In Battle

Foiled by the French in their efforts to overcome the barrier of the Retz forest, east of Villers-Cotterets, by frontal attacks, the Germans attempted to outflank the position by assaults north and south of it. After slight gains, the French stopped them on both flanks. American troops taking part in the fighting around Chateau-Thierry, where the western wing of the battle front joins the Marne.

Fighting Along Marne

Between the Oise and the Marne, the fighting continues heavier than elsewhere.

EXPECT STOCKHANDLERS' STRIKE TO SPREAD

CHICAGO, June 5.—A strike of 1500 members of the Stockhandlers' union, which tied up the livestock business at the stockyards today, was expected to serve as the signal for similar walk-outs in the yards of other cities, according to J. W. Johnson, chairman of the organizing committee of the stockyards labor council.

He placed responsibility for the trouble on General Manager Leonard of the Union Stockyards and Transit Co.

"After Judge Alschuler had given the packing house employees practically all they had asked," said Johnson, "President Griffin of the Livestock

MANY LOWELL MEN REGISTER FOR THE NATIONAL DRAFT

Approximately 250 Lowell men who are 21 years of age registered for the national draft in this city up to noon today at the various local exemption board headquarters. The noon hour brought an influx of registrants that sent the total up to 500 or more.

Registration started bright and early at 7 o'clock this morning. The chairman and members of the various exemption boards were on hand ready to meet the embryo soldiers with all the blanks and materials that the government provided. The regular working force of each board was supplemented by three or four extra clerks and there was little or no delay in handling the registrants. Some of the registrants of foreign birth or parentage had difficulty in answering a few of the questions asked, but eventually the answers were always forthcoming.

Young men of wards 1, 5 and 9 registered at Division 1 headquarters at 322 Merrimack street. Chairman Julian R. Keyes directed the work here. S. M. Pihl of 27 Cosgrove street was the first man to register. About 75 men had registered up to noon.

Men from wards 2 and 3 registered in the registrars' office in the basement of city hall where Division 2 board took up temporary headquarters for the day. Chairman George E. Marchand was the presiding officer. Joseph H. Coudill of 121 Willis street was the first man to "sign the papers." The following men assisted as clerks in this division this morning: Bernard J. McArdle, Peter A. Phasoulis and Ernest B. Parsons. This evening City Clerk Stephen Flynn, John C. King and James J. Redmond will assist.

Registrants in wards 4, 7 and 8 registered at the court house in Gorham street, where the members and clerks of Division 3 board held sway under the direction of Judge Thomas J. Enright, chairman. Charles J. Lorigan of 23 Houghton avenue was the first registrant in this division. Up to noon 75 men had registered.

The Greenhage school was the place of registration for the men in ward 3. Chairman James J. Gallagher directed activities here. Joseph Molard of 47 Lilley avenue was the first registrant, and about 50 had registered up to noon.

Registration will continue until 9 o'clock this evening, and every man in Lowell who has become 21 years of age since June 5 of last year is obliged to register for the national army.

Just a year ago today every man in the city between 21 and 31 years of age was called upon to go to the polling booth in his precinct to register. Approximately 11,000 responded to the call. It is expected that there will be between 1000 and 1200 registered when the final figures are in this evening.

PLOT TO SMUGGLE JEWELS OF ROMANOFF DYNASTY INTO U. S.

NEW YORK, June 5.—A plot to smuggle into America the crown jewels of the dethroned Romanoff dynasty, stones valued at $2,000,000, is believed to have been discovered by United States customs officials.

Two United States officials are under suspicion. It is announced. One is in Russia and the other arrived at an Atlantic port recently on a Danish steamship, hurried "to Washington on official business," and is now missing.

Two Held in $10,000

Two passengers on the vessel, Vladimir Jorgensen and Montefiore G. Kahn, were arraigned before a United States commissioner in Hoboken, N. J., today for alleged complicity and were held in $10,000 bail each for examination to-morrow.

Federal agents are said to have located $150,000 worth of the jewels and to be on the trail of the others.

When the Danish ship was nearing

American shores federal officials received information that the stones had been seized by the Bolsheviks and were in possession of persons on the vessel. They met the ship before she docked and posed as passengers during the rest of the voyage. From several passengers, including a woman said to be a Russian countess, the agents received clues which led to a search of the New York home of the wife of an American official under suspicion in Russia.

The government is said to have important witnesses prepared to testify at the court hearing to-morrow. The names of the American officials and of the Russian countess were withheld pending further inquiry.

$50 VERDICT IN BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

The jury in the case of Mary A. Smith against David Bruce, both of this city, an action of contract, returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $50 this afternoon at the civil session of the superior court with jury. Mrs. Smith claimed that Mr. Bruce promised to marry her, but later changed his mind and she sued him to recover $10,000 for loss of affection. The case which was heard yesterday was given to the jury early this morning, but it was after two o'clock this afternoon when the jury returned.

Action of Tort

Shortly after the opening of this morning's session the case of George W. Harris against Edgar Wells, an action of tort, in which the defendant is charged with the destruction of a wooden house when the latter broke, precipitating him to the ground and he suffered injuries which in all probability will prove to be permanent and since that time has been unable to work at his regular trade and at present is employed in a machine shop. The defendant's answer is a general denial, but an amended answer states that the plaintiff was not in the exercise of due care when the accident occurred.

American Patrol Fleet Searching For U-Boat Raiders Off Coast

Raid Will Not Check Flow of Men and Munitions to France

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Whatever the purpose of the submarine raid off the Atlantic coast and whatever number of submarines hereafter may come to American waters, there will be no check on the flow of men and munitions to France, Secretary Daniels said today.

"The great duty of our navy," he said, "is to keep open the door to France, to carry our men and munitions to the great battle front and to guard food supplies for our co-belligerents. That has been accomplished thus far and we will continue to keep the road open."

The navy department had no further advice at noon today from the patrol fleet hunting down the submarine that was last heard from off the Virginia and Maryland coasts.

Many U-Boats May Be Here

Naval officials are proceeding on the theory that many submarines may be off the coast or may be expected to arrive, although they have nothing to indicate that more than two have been operating. When American destroyers and other small craft were sent abroad for work in the war zone, it was fully realized that submarine raids in American waters were entirely possible and the entire coastal patrol service has been built up on that assumption.

It has been realized that the length of the American coast line and the limited number of swift destroyers that could be retained at home made it possible for raiders to strike at coastwise traffic or even at transports. Admiral Benson has been continually watching this phase of naval preparation and has felt that months of drill and practice cruising without a single attack might make the patrol forces stale. Recently he visited Atlantic coast defense districts in person to see that they were up to the mark. His inspection had hardly been completed when the raiders arrived.

Additional Protection

Already it has been shown, officials say, that precaution taken to guard departing troops and munition vessels have proved adequate. Efforts to furnish additional protection to coastwise shipping are now being made. In some cases, fleets of coasters may be assembled to be passed along under convoy from one district to the other. Undoubtedly guns and gunners will be furnished in many cases. Every skipper who wants them will be provided with weapons with which to hit back.

Officials are inclined to believe that it is only a sea tory with which they have to deal. It may be repeated. It is not possible to prevent its repetition nor can enough boats be turned out in some months to make it possible.

JOSEPH MURPHY DEAD

The local police received a communication from the police of Adams, Mass., this afternoon stating that Joseph Murphy, about 38 years of age, five feet, eight inches tall, light complexion and a wool weaver by occupation, was struck by an automobile in Adams Sunday night and died of injuries received a short time later. It is thought that the man has relatives in this city. Relatives or persons who know of the man are requested to communicate with the chief of police of Adams.

"Don't Use Wireless and We Won't Shoot," Newest "Made in Germany" War Slogan—Another American Schooner Sunk—U. S. Destroyer Beats Off U-Boat—Survivors Talk

NEW YORK, June 5.—"Don't use your wireless and we won't shoot," is the newest "Made in Germany" war slogan, under which the emperor's submarine commanders are carrying their campaign of frightfulness into American Atlantic waters, according to persons among 250 survivors of the steamship Carolina, who were brought to this port aboard a coastwise schooner, early today. The Carolina was destroyed by U-boat gunfire 50 miles off the Delaware Capes, on Sunday evening.

Stories told by passengers and crew of the sunken vessel indicated that Edwin W. Vogel of New York city, the ship's 19-year-old chief wireless operator, played a spectacular part in the dramatic raiding of the Carolina. When the submarine messaged the "You use no wireless—we don't shoot," Vogel defiantly repeated his S.O.S. signals, which he had already begun flashing and was on the verge of answering queries from Cape May and the Brooklyn navy yard stations for the Carolina's position when Capt. T. R. D. Barbour, Vogel's commander, ordered him to quit his key and see whether the Germans would keep their pledge, passengers declared.

Captain Barbour said he decided to accept the proposition laid down by the U-boat skipper because he believed dissent would have meant forfeiture of the lives of the women and children aboard the vessel.

Arrival of the 250 survivors here today, 156 of whom were passengers and 94 members of the crew, leaves an apparent discrepancy of 20 persons to be accounted for. This calculation by officials of the New York & Porto Rico Steamship Co., owners of the Carolina, is based on advices that 16 are known to have been lost from a lifeboat which reached Lewes, Del., yesterday with only 19 of its original burden of 35 persons, and that 28 were landed yesterday at Atlantic City.

PRES. WILSON EXTENDS LIST OF ENEMIES

WASHINGTON, June 5.—President Wilson today extended the list of enemies of the United States under powers of the trading with the enemy act to take in a number of classes that heretofore have not come within operation of the law. Under his proclamation the following are designated as enemies:

Any woman residing outside of the United States, who is a citizen of an enemy nation or whose husband is an officer or agent of an enemy nation or who is carrying on business activities with enemy nations.

All persons whom the allied nations at war with the Central powers have found it necessary to intern or hold as prisoners of war.

All persons, citizens of enemy countries who have assisted in the dissemination of German propaganda or in plotting or intruding against the United States or the government of any of the allied nations.

Any individuals, citizens of neutral countries, whom the war trade board may hereafter formally name on the enemy trading list.

All citizens of enemy countries no matter where they reside now, who have resided within the territory of enemy powers since August 4, 1914.

The proclamation requires officers of corporations and trustees within the United States to furnish within 30 days to the alien property custodian, a list of whatever holdings there are whose ownership included individuals within the newly classified list of enemies. Debtors to persons now made enemies also are required to furnish statements to the custodian.

LOWELL POLICE CAPTURE AN "HONEST" THIEF

One of the slickest individuals that the local police has had dealings with in a long time was ushered into the police station about 10:30 o'clock last night in the person of Fred Laplante, aged 37 years, an operative by occupation who claims Oxford, Mass., as his regular place of abode. In police court this morning he was charged with two counts of larceny, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to four months in jail. Did he appeal? Not so as you could notice it, for he

IMPORTANT SUGAR TIPS FOR LOWELL WOMEN

Lowell women who intend to can or otherwise preserve fruits, etc., but who are wondering where they are to get the sugar for this purpose will be interested to know that the state food administration has issued application cards to local grocers and other stores handling sugar. One-half of this card is to be signed by the retail purchaser and by so signing it she may obtain as much as 25 pounds of sugar for preserving purposes. Not more than 25 pounds will be given to an individual. Canning clubs may receive as much as 100 pounds at a time providing they have a special permit.

Any surplus sugar which is not used for canning purposes must be returned to the dealer.

The dealer returns the second half of the card which is signed by the customer to the county food administration. Bakers, hotels and restaurants are the only ones exempted from this plan of distributing sugar.

MITCHELL BOYS' SCHOOL CLOSING EXERCISES

The annual closing day exercises of the Mitchell Military Boys' school of Billerica were held this afternoon on the front campus of the school from 2 to 4 o'clock. They were largely of a military nature.

The program of exercises included: Setting-up drill, rifle exercise, extended order drill, skirmish drill, tent pitching, cannon drill, close order drill, manual of arms and color ceremony.

Alexander H. Mitchell, the principal, presented the prizes awarded for proficiency in various lines of school activities. Music was furnished by Hibbard's orchestra.

The awards and prize winners were as follows:

Alumni cup for excellence in scholarship, Hartwell R. Craigin; second prize, Roland E. Derby.

Sutton medal for military excellence, Leonard E. Wilcox of Andover.

Kelley trophy for military excellence in junior department, Erskine H. Kelley, Jr., of Winchester.

Trophies awarded for excellence in athletics, Hartwell R. Craigin, football, Leonard E. Wilcox, baseball.

The boys went through the military exercises in a most satisfactory manner, showing the result of the careful training and discipline for which this school is noted.

The grounds this year appear more beautiful than ever and with their tented fields, they suggest the ideal military camp.

The cadet officers at the school this year are:

Hartwell R. Craigin, Captain
Roland E. Derby, 1st Lieutenant
Richard P. Jones, 2d Lieutenant
Leonard E. Wilcox, 1st sergeant
Juan Olano, Q. M. sergeant

An address to the boys was delivered by Rev. William L. Walsh of the First Unitarian church of Billerica. It was a most inspiring address.

The exercises closed with the pledge of allegiance to the flag and the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

NEW PLAN TO AVOID IRISH CONSCRIPTION

DUBLIN, Monday, June 5.—The proclamation by the lord lieutenant asking for 50,000 voluntary recruits, and thereafter 2000 to 3000 monthly, to maintain the Irish divisions, was issued as an opportunity for Ireland to avoid the application of the conscription law passed by parliament. The text says:

"In pursuance of our promise we now make our offer which, if successful, will insure that Ireland will play her part fully and freely in the world struggle for liberty. The offer is that Ireland voluntarily furnish the number of men required to establish her equitable ratio compared with other parts of the empire."

"In order to establish that ratio, Ireland can be fairly asked to raise 50,000 recruits before October 1, to replenish Irish divisions in the field and thereafter raise from two to three thousand recruits per month to maintain those divisions."

The proclamation proceeds to declare that there is no intention to do anything to interfere with the country's essential industries. It says it is not expected that many of the rural population will be available for military purposes and that the government is looking almost entirely to the large number of young men in the towns, which is far greater than is required to carry on the ordinary retail trade, to furnish the necessary contingent, as is done in England, Scotland and Wales.

Then announcing that it is proposed first to call the younger men and those who can best be spared to fight for the Motherland, the proclamation specifies the ages. The first call is especially to men 18 to 27 years of age. Older men will be accepted, however.

"We recognize," the proclamation continues, "that men volunteering are entitled to share in all their Motherland can offer. Sons therefore are being taken to insure, as far as possible, that the younger men and those who can best be spared to fight for the Motherland, the proclamation specifies the ages. The first call is especially to men 18 to 27 years of age. Older men will be accepted, however."

For Women Who Worry

Worry and "the blues" are usually linked together, and in many cases are due to some functional derangement which if not corrected may lead to more serious ailments. More outdoor life, sleep, water-drinking and a few weeks' treatment with that good old-fashioned root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, will revitalize and strengthen the system and work wonders for any woman. If you are prone to worry and "the blues" try it.

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE FOR PREMIER CLEMENCEAU

PARIS, June 5.—Premier Clemenceau, after addressing the chamber of deputies yesterday afternoon, received a vote of confidence in the government of 377 against 110.

As soon as the chamber opened the premier arose and said he had received several notices of interpellations regarding the military situation.

"My first impulse," he continued, "was to come here and reply to them, but after reflection I realized that I could not at the present moment, although I am sure the interpellations are due to a patriotic spirit to which I render homage."

The premier recalled that he had given explanations to the army committee, adding that he was unable to appear publicly and would refuse to address a secret sitting of the deputies.

"I believe the country should know what passes in the chamber. The chamber controls the government and the country controls the chamber."

The speaker was interrupted with cheers from the left, centre and right.

Cannot Discuss Reverse at Present

Deputy Marcel Cachin, leader of the socialists, declared that the socialists were not influenced in giving notice of their interpellations by any idea of attacking the government because of old differences between M. Clemenceau and their party.

The premier said it was impossible at this time to give explanations regarding the military situation. He said an investigation was being made as to responsibilities, but that so far it had revealed nothing.

"Certain people," he declared, "expect me to take active measures against chiefs who have deserved well of their country. These people are mistaken. It would be a cowardice I shall never commit."

The success of the French high command in getting artillery to the front at telling points in the path of the advancing Germans was the subject of satisfied comment in the lobbies of the chamber of deputies Monday night. The Germans evidently did not expect to encounter this concentration of guns and when they tried to advance Monday and ran into the rain of French artillery fire they suffered terrible losses.

American Help in Battle

The Matin reports that in Monday's talk to the army committee Premier Clemenceau went largely into the general war situation, and dwelt particularly upon the question of munitioning and that of American co-operation, the intensity of which, he indicated, was making itself more and more strongly felt.

As regards the situation on the main battle front, the newspapers hold the view that the process of stabilization has already been begun. The balance between the respective forces, indeed, is believed to be nearly re-established, enabling the French to inflict heavier and heavier losses upon the enemy.

Taking the front as a whole, however, it is declared, the enemy retains a numerical superiority, and in view of the possibility that he may essay an offensive in another direction, the French command is obliged to exercise prudence and await its hour before heavily committing itself.

ACTION ON FIRE

An alarm from box 24 at 5.15 o'clock this morning summoned a portion of the fire department to Appleton street, opposite Elliot street, to extinguish a fire in an automobile belonging to Contractor Edward O. Twyler. The blaze started from a spark which ignited some grease in the drip pan, but Mr. Twyler did not know that his car was afire until a passerby shouted at him. A hand extinguisher was secured and the fire was smothered before the arrival of the fire apparatus, which responded to the alarm sounded by some excited person.

FAITH IN FOCH

Supreme War Council Also
Confident of Ultimate
Allied Victory

Declares U. S. Army Makes
Defeat of Huns Certain—
Thanks Wilson

LONDON, June 5.—(By the Associated Press)—The supreme war council, which has had under advisement the entire war situation, has expressed in an official statement made public last night full confidence in the outcome of the war, with the aid of the American forces.

Complete confidence in Gen. Foch is also expressed, and thanks are extended to President Wilson for his co-operation in the work of transporting and brigading American troops.

"The supreme war council held its sixth session under circumstances of great gravity for the alliance of free peoples," says the statement. "The German government, relieved of all pressure on the eastern front by the collapse of the Russian armies and people, has concentrated all its effort in the west. It is now seeking to gain a decision in Europe by a series of desperate and costly assaults upon the allied armies before the United States can bring its full strength effectively to bear."

The advantage it possesses in its strategic position and superior railway facilities has enabled the enemy command to gain some initial successes. It will undoubtedly renew its attacks, and the allied nations may be still exposed to critical days.

"After a review of the whole position, the supreme war council is convinced that the allies, bearing the trials of the forthcoming campaign with the same fortitude as they have ever exhibited in defense of the right, will baffle the enemy's purposes and in due course bring him to defeat."

"Everything possible is being done to sustain and support the armies in the field. The arrangements for unity of command have greatly improved the position of the allied armies and are working smoothly and with success. The supreme war council has complete confidence in Gen. Foch. It regards with pride and admiration the valor of the allied troops."

"Thanks to the prompt and cordial co-operation of the president of the United States, the arrangements which were set on foot more than two months ago for the transportation and brigading of American troops will make it impossible for the enemy to gain victory by wearing out the allied reserve before he has exhausted his own."

"The supreme war council is confident of the ultimate result, and the allied peoples are resolute not to surrender a single one of the free nations of the world to the despotism of Berlin. Their armies are displaying the same steadfast courage which has enabled them on many previous occasions to defeat a German onset. They have only to endure with faith and patience to the end to make victory for freedom secure. The free peoples and their magnificent soldiers will save civilization."

passerby shouted at him. A hand extinguisher was secured and the fire was smothered before the arrival of the fire apparatus, which responded to the alarm sounded by some excited person.

FAIRBANKS DEAD

Former Vice President and Senator Dies at Home in Indianapolis

Had Rapid Rise to Wealth and Fame—Sketch of His Career

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 5.—Charles Warren Fairbanks, former vice president of the United States, and former United States senator for Indiana, died at his home here at 5.55 o'clock last night. Death was due to intestinal nephritis which had been a chronic ailment with him, but not regarded as particularly serious until recently. All members of the former vice president's family, except Maj. Richard Fairbanks, who is in France, were at his bedside.

The distinction of birth in a log cabin, which illustrious Americans of an earlier day commonly had, was also that of former Vice President Fairbanks. It is probable that he was the last of American statesmen to have been born in one of these humble cabins.

The one where he was born on May 11, 1852, was at Unionville Centre, O. It came dangerously near being the funeral pyre for the future statesman. When Mr. Fairbanks was a boy of 4, his father built a new home, and the one-room log cabin was used as a carpenter shop. One day while the workmen were at luncheon Charles wandered into the shop and carelessly threw a bunch of shavings into the open fireplace. The cabin caught fire and when the boy realized his danger he was forced to scramble through a window.

Mr. Fairbanks traced his ancestors to the days of Oliver Cromwell. Who counted "Fayerbanks" among his supporters. Jonathan Fayerbanks, the first member of the family to come to America, landed at Boston in 1628. Mr. Fairbanks' father was Loriston Monroe Fairbanks, a wagon maker of Vermont, who emigrated to Union county, O. His mother was a sister of the late William Henry Smith, once general manager of the Associated Press.

The Fairbanks home frequently was the hiding place of runaway slaves and no black man ever was turned away from the door. Fairbanks was eight years old when Abraham Lincoln was elected president. Then followed the Civil war, the stirring scenes of which the future vice president followed with keen interest.

Fairbanks, at 15, entered Ohio Wesleyan college at Delaware, Ohio, sharing an attic room with the son of another farmer, and the two cooked their own meals. Fairbanks did carpenter work to earn his first law books.

Soon after he was graduated, Mr. Fairbanks was appointed agent of the Associated Press at Pittsburgh, Pa., holding that position for one year. His most important assignment was the rally of the democrats and liberal republicans in 1872. This was one of the largest meetings of the campaign and was addressed by Horace Greeley. Later in life he frequently referred with keen delight to his work as a newspaperman.

From Pittsburgh, Mr. Fairbanks went to Cleveland and completed his law course. In 1874 he married Miss Cornelia Cole, the culmination of a romance that began when both were members of the editorial staff of the college paper. To them were born five children, one daughter and four sons.

After marriage Mr. Fairbanks moved to Indianapolis and opened a law office. He took a deep interest in politics and assisted in local, state and national campaigns, managed Walter C. Gresham's campaign for the presidency nomination for the year 1888 and later labored industriously for Benjamin Harrison's nomination. It has been stated many times that Mr. Fairbanks did more to commit the republican party in Indiana to the gold standard in 1896 than any other man and that he wrote the money plank in the national platform adopted at the St. Louis convention, over which he presided as temporary chairman. When William McKinley was nominated for the presidency Mr. Fairbanks toured the country in his interests.

In January, 1897, Mr. Fairbanks was elected to the United States senate. He took his seat on March 4, the day on which McKinley became president. He became a close adviser of the president in the trying times before and during the Spanish-American war.

Among Mr. Fairbanks' greatest services to his country were those performed while he was a member of the United States and British joint com-

SEVEN YALE MEN FINED FOR RIOT

NEW HAVEN, June 5.—Seven of the eight Yale students on trial charged with breach of the peace in taking part in a demonstration May 20, were found guilty and fined, in city court yesterday. The amounts ranged from $10 to $100. Sherrold Kent, son of Prof. C. F. Kent, who had two charges against him, was discharged, the court finding that all he did was to inquire from an officer as to the procedure in securing bail for the others arrested. Kent was not in the parade. It was brought out that he was clubbed by a police officer after asking a question. John H. Mitchell of Wellesley, Mass., who is said to have laughed at Mayor Fitzgerald, received a $50 fine for breach of the peace, the court holding that as he was arrested by order of the mayor after laughing he could not have been guilty of "failure to disperse upon order."

The highest fine came through conviction on two counts, the defendant being O. F. Davidson of Dayton, O. Judge Hoyt said he thought it unfortunate that more of the paraders had not been arrested for breach of the peace.

300 ACRES BURNED OVER IN AMESBURY

AMESBURY, June 5.—Fire which started yesterday forenoon in a wooded lot on the Newbury road burned fiercely over 300 acres of wood and pasture land before the firemen of this town and volunteers from South Hampton could bring it under control. The fire started from a sawmill. It was stopped on the farm of William A. Charland, whose loss included 60,000 feet of logs, 150 cords of pine tops, as well as standing timber. More than 300 cords of cut wood was also consumed.

The Bon Marche

Gave Her Health Strength and a Good Complexion

Women who grow thin, pale and weak can do much to improve their condition by building up the blood. A faded complexion can be restored by making the blood rich and red. New color will come to the lips and brightness to the eyes when the weak, thin blood is made strong and vigorous.

Mrs. Anna Shaw of 16 Lawson street, Lowell, Mass., used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to overcome the effects of a general run-down condition. "I suffered about six months from bloodlessness," she says, "and could not do my work. I had headaches and dizzy spells, and was nervous and irritable. I had very little appetite and lost weight. My blood was thin and I had no strength nor color."

"After taking one box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I learned about through the newspaper, I could see that they were helping me. I became stronger, put on flesh and my color improved. I have recommended the pills to others and I shall certainly take them if I should need anything to build me up."

The purpose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is to build up the blood. They do this one thing and they do it well. They are for this reason an invaluable remedy in diseases arising from bad or deficient blood, as rheumatism, neuralgia, after-effects of the grip and fevers. The pills are guaranteed to be free from opiates or any harmful drug and cannot injure the most delicate system.

In spite of the increased cost of all drugs the price of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has not been changed. Your own druggist can supply you or you can order direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., enclosing fifty cents for one box or $2.50 for six boxes. ITALIAN ACE BRINGS DOWN 32ND PLANE

Major Baracca, Italy's leading aviator, is rapidly coming to the fore as one of the greatest allied fliers. He recently brought down his thirty-second enemy plane, shooting down the leading airplane of a Teuton squadron. For his latest exploit he was decorated with the gold military medal.

AIRPLANES AND "BLIMPS" EYES FOR U-HUNTERS AS WELL AS ARMY

BY SEAMAN R. W. BURKE OF THE U.S.S. "ALBATROSS"

If you have airplanes to co-operate with the destroyers, you can keep your eyes right on the submarine.

The higher the airman goes above the water, the farther down under the water he can see—on the principle of the fish hawk.

With a big convoy planes are always sent out from land to meet us. They are big hydro-planes—you never see them over here—with big pontoons fastened on them so they can come down and sit on the water and make repairs and go up again. They can shove off any time they want to. And they can go out on a very good rolling sea. Sometimes they come out as far as 50 miles to meet a convoy.

They circle about scouting over and around the convoy, and signal to us whenever they spot anything. They signal either by a blink light—something like an oculist's light—or by wireless.

We got a wireless one day that a ship had been sunk about 10 miles below a certain point which made it 20 miles away. We got down there, but we never saw anything of it. The ship had been torpedoed but when we arrived all the survivors had been taken off by another boat. The sinking ship had been spotted by an airplane 20 miles away.

That is where the airplane comes in handy. We would never have known anything about that sinking if it had not been for the airplane.

Then, too, the "blimps" or dirigibles are used a lot. We used to see them scouting around the sky like so many pigeons all along the coast. They can drop bombs as well as the destroyers. And they are accounted for a number of submarines.

A number of our destroyers were operating with a couple of "blimps" one day and the "blimps" discovered a few submarines. I don't know how many.

making back to their base, and signaled the destroyers. They had quite an engagement; the "blimps" dropped bombs and the destroyers dropped depth charges and after a few minutes they had cleaned up the submarines.

We used to pick up wireless messages by the hundred. The wireless would be reporting submarines here and there, ship sighted, ship sunk, etc.—all kinds of wireless messages.

Sometimes we picked them up from away down in southern waters, way down in the Mediterranean, and one day we picked up a wireless saying three merchant ships were engaged with some submarines in a gun battle. They were too far away; we did not attempt to reach them.

But immediately after, we picked up another wireless which said "another destroyer coming up." The submarine must have heard that wireless coming back so she submerged as soon as she saw the destroyer coming along.

The Mysterious Captain

There was one mysterious submarine captain who sent out messages all the time signed "Kelly." He would send a message boasting that he was going to torpedo such and such a ship, signed "Kelly," or that he had missed a ship; and message to such a ship: "Sorry I missed you."

The commanding officer used all our wireless boys at the time on those messages from Kelly, trying to find out who he was, but we could not make him out. He seemed to be pretty square; he would never deal in the regular German dirty work. He always got the passengers off before he would torpedo a ship. And he was clever.

Signals Any Old Time

Sometimes we would be in port taking on supplies, cleaning ship, or with half the boat's wash out on the lines, when the signal would come suddenly that a submarine was reported outside, and ordering so many destroyers to get under way at once.

The quartermaster would pass the word that the admiral had reported "submarine operating such and such a place; how soon can you get under way?" Then they would send out a "How soon can the different ships get under way?" Sometimes we could get underway in ten minutes if we had steam up. Sometimes the destroyers would go out and they wouldn't have any life lines rigged or anything, and maybe not all the crew on board. The men on liberty would have to be picked up later.

When we went ashore in England the first thing we would do would be to go and get something to eat. We would buy a chicken and some Brussel sprouts and take them to a restaurant to be cooked. There's nothing like a change. We would get tired of "Canned Bill" (corned beef), "Cold fish" (canned salmon) and the other regular "chow." At the American club we could get real American French fried potatoes. We brought about with us some English war bread. It's fine. But I guess you can get too much of it. Anyway the British naval officer, who was to come aboard the American ship to get some of our white bread.

TO REVISE CONSTITUTION OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

CONCORD, N. H., June 5.—Revision of the method of taxing growing timber and a proposal for the taxation of incomes were the most widely discussed topics among delegates to the constitutional convention which met here today.

The rapidity with which forests have been cut off during the last few years has been ascribed by many land owners as being due to the fact that taxation on their full value each year has made it unprofitable to allow their continued growth. The state tax commission in its last annual report, suggested a constitutional amendment which would empower the legislature to assess growing timber on a graduated scale, according to its estimated value each year.

This convention is the tenth to be called to revise the constitution of the state and is the largest in point of numbers, a total of 424 delegates being elected. The drain of war upon the young men of New Hampshire is reflected in the fact that out of the 424 delegates, only five are under 30 years of age. Many of the delegates were in favor of adjournment immediately after organization on the ground that revision of the constitution should be postponed until after the war.

DEMONSTRATE FOOD BY TROLLEY

Special to The Sun.

STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 5.—In order that Bay State housekeepers may have an opportunity to witness practical demonstrations of the possibilities of food conservation, and the use of substitutes, plans are being made for a special trolley demonstration car which during the summer months will visit all of the principal centres.

A specially constructed vestibule car has been chartered, and when it is equipped, will start out over the Bay State street railway tracks for a cruise of several days. The route will run along the highways, starting in the northern section at Lowell and moving toward the Cape towns. Permits have been secured for stops of a full day in each of the larger centres, and this will give ample opportunity for several repetitions of the program of lectures and demonstrations.

This latest project to further the food conservation work of this state has been made possible through the generosity of Mrs. A. Lawrence Hopkins, and the plan has the hearty approval of the food administration.

It is expected that the initial trip will be made early in July, and when the Bay State route has been covered the car, or others similar to it, will be transferred to routes in the central and western sections of the state. HOYT.

SUMMER BOARDERS MUST HOOVERIZE

Special to The Sun.

STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 5.—Keepers of small summer boarding houses are amenable to the rules of the food administration, just the same as the larger hotels and restaurants, according to a decision by Herbert Hoover in the case of Leslie F. Saulman of Blandford, who owns a farm in that town and incidentally caters to a few summer boarders.

In announcing Mr. Hoover's decision, State Food Administrator Henry B. Endicott says:

"This case is important because it has been taken up by Washington as a test case, and the Saulman case is precedent for all similar cases throughout the country. It has had careful thought and consideration of both the baking and law division of the United States food administration in Washington.

"Mr. Saulman is a farmer in Blandford, in the western part of the state, who has summer boarders. He took out a baker's license in order that during the summer he might make bread with ingredients permitted by the administration to bakers.

"On our recommendation, Washington has revoked his license because it is satisfied that there is no reason why summer boarding houses of the character maintained by farmers throughout New England should not use the same amount of substitutes as private families.

"It blocks one further method of evasion of the '50-50' rule. Of course this ruling will not apply to the large hotels which get bread from regular bakeries."

ANOTHER MILLION YOUTHS REGISTER FOR WAR SERVICE

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Today, on the anniversary of America's first manpower mobilization, another million youths, the estimated strength of the class of 1918 register on the first stage of the journey to the colors.

When their draft registration cards come into their hands, they come to the disposition of a swift, smoothly-working and practiced organization, whose agencies in every country-side, hamlet, and city of the land have assumed successfully the task of discriminating between the nation's need for men who can fight or work, and its additional need for men at home to support its dependent population.

Observers, foreign and domestic, military and civilian alike, class the performance to date under the American selective service law as the most tangibly successful of its military efforts, and regard the accession to the manpower reserve of the young men who had not reached their majority one year ago as the most certain assurance of the final downfall of the Prussian autocracy. Be it near or far, the day of allied victory cannot be evaded, the practical military view is, so long as the rising flood of the American armaments, drilled, equipped and equipped can be turned to the European battlefield.

Provost-Marshal General Crowder, who supervises the draft, fixes the tentative number given above for the day's new total, and likewise from the experience tables of the year placed the number of potential soldiers to be added to the list today at 750,000, concluding that the class will be 75 per cent composed of military effectives.

As they assemble at the registering stations today, the total of men raised by the draft in the United States for its armies will pass 1,500,000. Before the end of the present month, the mobilized total will have passed 1,500,000, for the immense military machine that owes its existence to the readiness of plain Americans to fight is moving forward to a goal that will meet Wilson's demand for "force" force to the utmost, and force without stint.

The 450 local boards throughout the country who take the burden of the work have named registering clerks for every 100 of the young men within their jurisdiction. Men absent unavoidably from their homes on registering day may apply to any board for their cards. Names as recorded will pass into the existing classifications of registered men and, in accordance with their physical qualifications, their status as to dependents and as to industrial or agricultural occupations, they will be assigned to Class 1, 2, 3, 4 or 5. The overwhelming majority, however, as indicated by the estimate given, the provost marshal general expects to find placed in Class 1.

They will go to the foot of the list of 1917 registrants in each class, and will not be called, the regulations provide, until those above them have been taken, unless by trade or education they are fitted for specialized army service, then they may be called sooner. The system of determining the order of their call as among themselves the provost marshal general has not yet fixed, but the general expectation is that some sort of lottery of the type previously used will be conducted on a national scale. Yet of this officials are not certain, because the recurring draft calls come more swiftly, and run to larger totals now, and the classification has come to be more important than the numbers. A late order number will serve only to postpone for a few days the inevitable call to the training camps.

National purpose to see that no individual evades service is expressed in the regulations, wherein are voiced the command of the government to peace officers of all descriptions, United States marshals, secret service men, and city police, that they shall abstain from evading service lists and coming out attempted evaders of the registration.

brief statement from Secretary William H. Bolger:

Gentlemen of the Board: The past year has been one of the most extraordinary in the history of the country and of the city, and incidentally in the history of our local board of trade. Because of our advent into the world war, which took place a short time prior to the commencement of our board of trade year the peaceful activities of our various communities throughout the land have been much disturbed and upset. The result has been that the round and boards of trade has, to a large measure, been temporarily abolished. Take, for instance, the establishment of new industries. The general tie-up of transportation, the lack of coal and the restrictions which the government has placed upon the formation of large corporations which do not assist in carrying on the war, has seriously retarded the establishment of new industries. In our own local situation we have the added problems of lack of labor and the lack of adequate housing facilities for those employees who otherwise would come to our city. The result has been, so far as Lowell is concerned, that there have been absolutely no demands worthy of mention for sites or buildings to be used for industrial purposes. In many other ways has the ordinary work of the board been virtually paralyzed. Those of the board who have been civilly inclined in the past, have been devoting their entire energies to war work of one sort or another. The result has been that it has been difficult to interest our own committees in our local city affairs, and even when sufficiently interested, as has happened in a number of cases, they have been unable to accomplish much of the work that the city government and others, to whom they appealed have not been in a proper frame of mind to assist in the accomplishment of that which they have sought.

But while there has been no interest in new industrial movements, still, local business conditions have been extremely good. This has been due to the fact that the various industries situated in Lowell have largely increased the number of their employees and have paid large wages to the same. This has obliged other industries to increase wages 22 per cent over those paid prior to the war. As a result the local merchants have profited to an extent never before equalled in our city, and therefore it may well be said that the war has brought to Lowell a period of unparalleled prosperity.

The members of the board, who during times of peace have devoted all of their civic energies to the board of trade affairs have been the same men who during the past year have devoted their efforts to war activities. We may say that in all matters pertaining to war problems, Lowell may hold up her head with any other city of its size in the land. The public safety committee, fuel committee, Red Cross committee, liberty loan committee, food conservation committee, and so on, are all doing their part to help win the war. It is significant to note that every one of these committees has derived its impetus from an authority outside the city of Lowell and has acted entirely independent of the board of trade. It has developed that this is an extremely happy solution of the problem because, if all of the functions of these committees were confined to the board of trade the combination of all would be entirely beyond the capacity of the board properly to execute.

We do not intend this evening to go into a detailed account of the accomplishments of the board of trade during the past year, as that matter will be properly handled by the secretary in his report. We do, however, call to your attention the fact that with a few exceptions, all the accomplishments of the board have been along war lines. One exception is the work which the board has done in inducing the Homeless League to build houses in the city of Lowell. In passing, we merely wish to say that there are now in the process of completion in Hildreth street in Lowell, some 18 houses which have been erected by the commission as model homes for workmen.

It is with considerable pride that we refer to the agricultural fair which was held in Lowell under the direction of the Middlesex North Agricultural society, the park commission and the Lowell board of trade. This fair was held on Sept. 20, 21 and 22, between 60,000 and 70,000 people attended the fair free of charge. Our idea in engaging in such an enterprise was solely to educate the people of Lowell as to what could be done in the way of planting and maintaining war gardens. The success of the venture may be determined in two ways: First, by the large number of householders who are planning their own gardens this year; and second, from the report of the Vermont State Board of Agriculture, which reported to the state board of agriculture as follows: "It seemed to me with exhibits of livestock and farm implements the fair could have been made the finest in the state. The exhibits in the Kasino and the decorations were far more than those of any fair I have attended."

We do not intend to expatiate on the work of the board regarding the holding of various meetings at the board rooms pertaining to the food or fuel situation and meetings of kindred nature. We think, however, that mention should be made of the fact that for a considerable period past the fuel committee has had its headquarters at the board of trade. Nothing as yet has developed regarding the plan for the fuel, until funds could be secured to pay their expenses.

The board has been active in the work of Americanization, having sent its president, with the superintendent of schools, to Washington regarding the same, which meeting was called by Secretary Lane of the department of the interior. Nothing as yet has developed regarding the plan for the fuel, until funds could be secured to pay their expenses.

organized and are proceeding with a great deal of enthusiasm in their work, and we are safe in saying that in every instance, without exception, they have felt that the organization has proved its worth. It is our earnest belief that the city is in fact ripe for much further development along these lines, and we confidently expect that before many months have passed, we shall be able to report that at least 20 industries have been organized under the general supervision of the board. By so doing we hope to make this board of trade a board of trade in fact.

If we may be so free as to express our thoughts regarding the personnel of the board as a whole, we feel, as was expressed by Senator Weeks at the time he spoke here, "that an organization such as this has manifold possibilities along the lines of accomplishing civic good." We do feel, however, that the board has not been and is not being properly exploited along these lines, and it is to be our serious endeavor during the coming year to see to it that it is so exploited. We hope to see the board take a much more active part as a whole in the war activities and to lead its hand in a more enthusiastic manner to all things which might accrue to the benefit of our local community and to our country as a whole.

In closing we wish to call to your attention the work of the board of trade pertaining to the housing problem which is at present being negotiated with the United States government. The project, if successful, will prove to be of great benefit to the city of Lowell, in fact, as great as any other venture which has ever been undertaken. If the government decides to assist us, and it looks very much as if it intends to, at least $500,000 will be expended in the city of Lowell for building purposes, and there is a possibility that the sum may reach nearly $1,000,000. It is but just to say that it has not been the work of the board of trade alone through which we hope this result will be accomplished. It has been the combined efforts of the board of trade with the public safety committee and numerous private citizens throughout the town. But it is with pride we state that practically without exception every man who has assisted in this work at the invitation of the board of trade has in fact been a member of the board.

And finally, if there is one thought more than another which we wish to leave with you tonight it is this: Those of us who are actively engaged in board of trade work are imbued with the sole motive of accomplishing something for the benefit of our city. We are utterly devoid of any ideas nor our accomplishments. We welcome suggestions and just criticism. We expect that when we call upon you for action we shall meet with a hearty response. In short, we demand co-operation in ideas, co-operation in action. And with this cooperation the work of the board cannot fail.

VIGOROUS WAR ADDRESS BY D. BREWER EDDY

D. Brewer Eddy of Boston, associate secretary of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions, addressed the members of the Lowell Congregational club at the meeting held last night at the Draught Centre Congregational church, his topic being "Some War Problems for Christian People."

It was the final meeting of the season, supper was served and a business session held, at which officers were elected for the ensuing year. The report of the secretary and treasurer, Louis Alexander, contained much valuable information and showed that 22 new members had been received during the year and that at the different meetings there had been an average of 150 at the tables. All bills had been paid and there is a small balance in the treasury.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Lewis E. MacBrayne; vice president, Rev. William F. English, Jr.; secretary and treasurer, Louis Alexander.

Home work committee—Rev. A. G. Lyons, Rev. A. E. Bales, Rev. E. C. Clapp, Rev. H. A. Barker, Rev. E. A. Robinson, Rev. A. E. Jenkins, Rev. E. C. Bartlett, Rev. A. R. Hussey.

Social committee—J. Victor Carey, E. T. Shaw, Dr. V. E. Darling, Haven G. Hill, Otis W. Butler, L. A. Olney, Mrs. Walter Mussey, Miss Susan McEvoy, Mrs. G. A. Richardson, Miss Julia Fox, Mrs. E. T. McKinley, Miss Edith E. Russell, S. H. Thompson.

Membership committee—E. W. Clark, Dr. A. G. Dennett, C. P. Fleming, Hector Turnbull, A. H. Slater, M. F. Wood, Mrs. J. G. Buttrick, Miss Fannie McEvoy, Miss Carrie Brinkne, Mrs. E. T. Shaw, Mrs. Fred Lacey, E. T. Adams.

Mr. Eddy's Address

Rev. E. C. Bartlett introduced Mr. Eddy as the speaker of the evening, and the latter in opening spoke of the military problem, quoting men who had been at the front. These men, the speaker said, in talking of conditions on the western front, say that there are no French divisions that could be called reserves for army maneuvers. One who knows the country thoroughly says that the incomprehensible thing is that any human force could have driven back the French army at the rate of seven or eight miles a day. In the reserve munition dumps lay the accumulated results of months of work on the part of munition factories of France. He spoke of one great escape, the air service, in which he could number the planes literally by the thousands.

HOW FOR LIBERTY!

Hoe and hoe, then hoe some more, is the best motto which the home food grower can adopt. Eternal hoeing is the price of a good garden, just as eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. Frequent cultivation will save the gardener from much other labor and it has many advantages, says today's bulletin from the national war garden commission.

For instance, it will save much watering and is better for the plants. In fact, the hoeing will keep the moisture, which is down in the ground from evaporating. The dust cover or "mulch," as it is called, prevents this. In addition, hoeing lets in the air and liberates the fertility around the plant roots so that they can get at it and eat it. Another advantage is that hoeing will keep weeds from getting a start and consuming the food in the soil.

given to us by the fortitude of France and the heroism of Britain, and that will make it impossible difficult for us to abandon our attitude of courage.

In conclusion, he told how the American board, with modern forms of missionary work, is going to meet the conditions that will follow the war, adapting its work to the needs of the hour, while still putting the first emphasis on evangelism.

MORE SURVIVORS LAND

Confused

gether with the 16 dead, account for 313 persons. The officials of the Carolina who reached here today said the vessel carried 342 passengers and crew.

Sing The Star Spangled Banner

After abandoning the ship, survivors reaching here said someone in a lifeboat began whistling "The Star Spangled Banner," and it was almost instantly taken up by those in other boats, the men joining in the whistling and many of the women singing the words.

Veteran mariners who superintended the allotting of lifeboats to those on the Carolina declared the coolness and expedition with which this task was accomplished was remarkable. Few women became hysterical, they declared, and most of these collected their wits under the robes promptly accorded them by other women of stouter courage.

Army Officers Not Molested

Those who reached here after escaping the triple menace of German gunfire, drowning and starvation were unable to understand why the commander of the U-boat chose to let go unmolested men newly commissioned lieutenants from the second United States army officers' training camp at San Juan. It was manifestly impossible for these men to escape the notice of the Hun captain, it was said, but he evinced no more interest in them, seemingly, than in any others aboard.

The officers, all of whom reached here safely, are: First Lieut. J. P. O'Toole, Clinton, Mass.; First Lieut. F. D. Carpenter, Maplewood, N. J.; First Lieut. R. J. Boyd, Syracuse, N. Y.; Second Lieut. G. Goldsmith, Pittsburg; Second Lieut. Bernard N. Weitz, New York city; Second Lieut. M. Ortiz, New York city; First Lieut. G. Nadal, San Juan, P. R.; First Lieut. Leslie W. Arthur, Boston; Second Lieut. William Redding, Mesquite, R. I.; First Lieut. William M. Sides, Philadelphia.

British Officer on Board

Capt. Robert K. Wright of the British navy, whose home is at Germantown, Pa., and Paymaster D. C. Crowell of the United States navy, also appeared on the deck of the submarine-marked vessel without drawing comment from the Teuton undersea men.

Wireless Operator Talks

This is what occurred as stated by Vogel:

"I was awakened at 5.30 p. m. as usual, on Sunday evening, for supper. The other fellow (Assistant Operator Werner) came yelling in while I was dressing and said, 'Come up here quick.' I rushed into the wireless room and there was an S.O.S. regarding the schooner Isabel B. Wiley. I clamped the receivers to my ears and heard it myself.

"S.O.S.—Isabel B. Wiley being shelled by armed German submarine—latitude 33.07—longitude 75.10—that's what the sounders said.

Began to Zig-Zag

"I told Capt. Barbour he'd better make quick headway for, judging by the strength of the signals, the submarine must be right on top of us.

"You're right, Sparks," the skipper said, and he bawled out to change our position and we began to zigzag and speed up.

"At about 6 o'clock I was down for supper and had just ordered my meal when I heard something smack alongside. I had a hunch what was going on, but I went out on deck without attracting any more attention than possible.

"I hurried up to the wireless house and sent the other operator up top to get our position. He returned shortly, saying someone else was figuring out where we were and meanwhile I was 'setting up' and forthwith shot our first S.O.S.

U-Boat Operator Batted In

"S.O.S. Steamship Carolina, being gunned by German submarine; I sent out a couple of times. Then I got my instrument for receiving. Within two minutes, Cape May station had picked us up and queried for our location.

"But just then our German visitor (the submarine operator) batted in and says: 'You don't use wireless—we don't shoot.' Sounds German, doesn't it?

"By the way, I could tell from the faintness of the vibrations that the Hun sender was geared to be heard not over a half mile away.

"On order then, from my captain, I replied that we were laying to.

"But I followed that by repeating the S.O.S. call.

First Shot Across Bow

"I forgot to say that the first shot went right across our bow. When I repeated the call for help, the Hun sent over another which whizzed some distance over our top. A third went to the rear and the fourth and last fell short. It seemed as though it was designed to scare us, but I thought there was a bit careless where they shot.

"By this time, everyone had rushed from the dining room and was trying to find shelter behind the deckhouse or below.

"I listened in again and caught repeated calls from Cape May and on from the Brooklyn navy yard, asking where we were. I hadn't our bearings from above yet, but knew approximately where we were. Just when I was rigging up to give this, Captain Barbour ordered 'No.'

Tore Up Code Book

"I went out of the wireless room and watched the passengers and crew going over the side in boats, then went back to the operating room and tore up a secret navy code book which the Hun might have found useful. All other papers of any importance that I found, I tore up and put in a silver water pitcher and threw it overboard. I sank 'Spurious versenkt'—You might say. Then the captain came in, and with him I took to a boat—everyone else had left.

Estimates as to the length of the German ship varied. Some said it was 300 feet long, while others insisted it was a "big one"—at least 300 feet in length. The crew of the raider was estimated at from 25 to 40, all in yellow oilskins. The captain and his men bobbed up through the conning tower and stood waving their hats from the deck during the attack, the refugees declared. Two of the submariners unfurled a German flag and held it "impudently" up for their gaze, the passengers declared.

All agreed the U-boat bore no identifying mark or number. She had two guns on stationary mountings, one fore and the other aft, and of about six inch calibre, they said.

Lieut. O'Toole Talks

Lieut. O'Toole had this to say about the "plugging" (as he called it) of the Carolina.

"After we were all overboard the German commander circled from the starboard to the port side of the ship and looked carefully about as if to see whether the boats were safely away. Then, with characteristic German thoroughness I suppose you'd call it, he planted six shells in her side—each of which was effectively placed.

"The ship listed. After a while the boilers popped and she went over on her side. An hour later she had gone beneath the waves—the crew, I think, then and we could watch her distinctly. I don't know where the U-boat went."

SAYS U-BOAT ATTACKS GOOD FOR U. S.

BOSTON, June 5.—Secretary of State Albert P. Langtry, in an address before the American British Federation at the Lenox hotel last night, said he thought the U-boat attack "the best thing that has happened to America," for it would enable Americans to realize that they were actually in the war. He also quoted a military officer of the state as saying to him: "I pray to God that a U-boat will come into Boston harbor, will hit the dome of the state house, and will thus make the people realize what they are up against."

The speaker complained of luxurious habits in present ways of living, and quoted figures to show that expenditures on unessentials are increasing.

"We are spending more money in America lavishly," he said, "because the war is moving away from the munition plants and the machine tools and laborers are making money as they never did before." He thought congress made the greatest blunder possible when it did not pass a national prohibition law at the time it declared a state of war with Germany, and congratulated his audience on the certainty that the American army was going to win the war without a shot.

He thought the administration had made a great mistake in not giving Colonel Roosevelt a part in the war, and expressed belief that the colonel would lead the army which was to oust the Germans from Belgium. Shooting for all traitors, with a court-martial after the shooting was the speaker's recommendation to the authorities.

Prof. Ephraim D. Adams of the National Security League, of the same university, reviewed the relations between Great Britain and the United States from the earliest times, with especial reference to the attitude of the two countries towards democracy.

"The militant patriotism of our historical textbooks," he said, "has centered upon our relations with Great Britain and the basic question at issue between the two nations was always the question of democracy. Much of the feeling that remained in this country against Great Britain was a remnant of the Civil War period, when England preferred to be neutral, while the United States was over, the success of the Civil War made possible the success of democracy in England. In the last 30 years England has gone far ahead of America in social democracy, and we must catch up with her. It is no use now to go through the process of forgiving England. Democracy is of the future in this world. Democracy is the expansion of democracy are the keynote in the development of the two nations. The living thing of today is the thing of importance, and that thing is harmony between Great Britain and the United States."

U. S. DESTROYER SAVES FRENCH SHIP OFF COAST

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A destroyer reported to the navy department last night that she interrupted an enemy submarine attack on a French steamer. The French ship was off the Maryland coast at 9.50 o'clock yesterday morning and found the American schooner Edward R. Baird, Jr., in a sinking condition, after having been bombed.

The despatch gave no details of the interrupted attack on the Radiotelegraph.

A later report announced the arrival of the French steamer at an American port. Two men were rescued from the Baird, which was a small coastal schooner of 270 tons. She was built in 1903 and hails from Wilmington, Del.

PROVE TWO U-BOATS TOOK PART IN RAID

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Statements of survivors of the steamship Carolina, landed at Lewes, Del., that their vessel was destroyed by the submarine U-57 establish definitely that at least two German submarines have been operating off the Atlantic coast.

Reports to the navy department show that the U-57 sank the schooners Hattie Dunn and Edna.

SCHOONER WITH 251 SURVIVORS ARRIVES

NEW YORK, June 5.—A schooner, carrying Capt. Barbour and 251 passengers and 24 of the crew of the steamer Carolina of the New York and Porto Rico line, which was sunk by a German submarine last Sunday, arrived here early today.

The schooner picked up the survivors of the Carolina at about noon yesterday. Among the survivors were 10 United States army officers, graduates of the second officers' training camp at San Juan, Porto Rico.

The survivors were met at the dock by a detachment of Red Cross workers and were driven in ambulances and automobiles to hotels and boarding houses.

Eighteen other survivors from the Carolina arrived in New York during the night by train from Lewes, Del. In the party were 10 passengers and eight of the crew. All had been supplied with clothing by the Red Cross. Naval officers accompanied them to an uptown hotel, where they retired immediately.

ANOTHER U. S. SCHOONER VICTIM OF RAIDERS

NEW YORK, June 5.—The American schooner Hattie Dunn was a victim of another U-boat attack Sunday afternoon 175 miles off New York, and 11 men of her crew were brought here today by a Danish steamship.

The Hattie, according to the crew was on her way to New York with a cargo from the West African coast. The vessel was sunk by bombs after the men had taken to the boats at the command of the U-boat commander.

The Hattie Dunn was a vessel of 915 gross tons, and was built in 1916, at Bath, Me., her owners of record being the Axim Transportation Co.

21,000 TONS OF SHIPPING SUNK BY HUN RAIDERS

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Concentration today of American naval forces off the Maryland coast, followed the receipt of advice by the navy department that German undersea craft, having sunk a probable total of ten vessels off the New Jersey shore, had yesterday transferred the scene of their depredations farther south. Just as naval officials had concluded that the raiders had been driven away from their home ports, there came news that a French tank steamer, the Radiotelegraph, had been saved from destruction early yesterday by an American destroyer, 65 miles off the Maryland coast.

Another Victim of Raiders

The same despatch brought the news that another schooner, the Edward Baird, Jr., had been added to the list of submarine victims.

The Baird was found in a sinking condition by the destroyer, which took on board two of the schooner's survivors. The Baird was a vessel of 270 tons, hailing from Wilmington, Del. No report had been received early today as to the fate of other members of the schooner's crew, and it was not known whether other additions would be made to the list of 58 persons believed to have been lost when the steamship Carolina was shelled and sunk.

Attack Transatlantic Vessel

In attacking the Radiotelegraph, the German raiders made their first attempt to sink a transatlantic vessel. The navy department despatch stated that the Radiotelegraph was later reported as having reached an American port. Transfer of the scene of operations from the waters off New Jersey to the Maryland coast, was taken by navy department officials to mean that the large number of patrol vessels, seaplanes and other craft which went out in search of the raiders when the first news of the sinkings was received Monday morning, had made it too uncomfortable for the enemy in the northern region. Naval forces from Norfolk to Chesapeake bay were today even more on the alert than yesterday in hopes of hunting down the raiders. While no official announcement has been made, it was indicated that the army aviation service had joined in the search.

Navy department officials today, after reading the stories told by survivors, were somewhat inclined to revise their previous view as to there being only one submarine engaged in the raid. The survivors' stories tended to establish the theory there were at least two and identified them as the U-37 and U-151.

Officials today declared that the work of the raiders thus far had been a failure in that only about 21,000 tons of shipping had been destroyed and that what was believed to have been the primary purpose, namely the creation of a demand by the American people for the return of American craft fighting submarines abroad, had been completely defeated.

ALL BUT 10 OF THE 218 PASSENGERS SAVED

NEW YORK, June 5.—All but 10 of the 218 passengers aboard the New York and Porto Rico liner Carolina, sunk by a submarine, have been accounted for, officers of the line announced this forenoon.

These figures were arrived at by checking up the names of the passengers who arrived here today, a schooner and those who reached Lewes, Del., and Atlantic City, N. J., yesterday with a list of passengers furnished by Captain Barbour, commander of the vessel.

21,000 TONS OF SHIPPING SUNK BY HUN RAIDERS

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Concentration today of American naval forces off the Maryland coast, followed the receipt of advice by the navy department that German undersea craft, having sunk a probable total of ten vessels off the New Jersey shore, had yesterday transferred the scene of their depredations farther south. Just as naval officials had concluded that the raiders had been driven away from their home ports, there came news that a French tank steamer, the Radiotelegraph, had been saved from destruction early yesterday by an American destroyer, 65 miles off the Maryland coast.

Another Victim of Raiders

The same despatch brought the news that another schooner, the Edward Baird, Jr., had been added to the list of submarine victims.

The Baird was found in a sinking condition by the destroyer, which took on board two of the schooner's survivors. The Baird was a vessel of 270 tons, hailing from Wilmington, Del. No report had been received early today as to the fate of other members of the schooner's crew, and it was not known whether other additions would be made to the list of 58 persons believed to have been lost when the steamship Carolina was shelled and sunk.

Attack Transatlantic Vessel

In attacking the Radiotelegraph, the German raiders made their first attempt to sink a transatlantic vessel. The navy department despatch stated that the Radiotelegraph was later reported as having reached an American port. Transfer of the scene of operations from the waters off New Jersey to the Maryland coast, was taken by navy department officials to mean that the large number of patrol vessels, seaplanes and other craft which went out in search of the raiders when the first news of the sinkings was received Monday morning, had made it too uncomfortable for the enemy in the northern region. Naval forces from Norfolk to Chesapeake bay were today even more on the alert than yesterday in hopes of hunting down the raiders. While no official announcement has been made, it was indicated that the army aviation service had joined in the search.

Navy department officials today, after reading the stories told by survivors, were somewhat inclined to revise their previous view as to there being only one submarine engaged in the raid. The survivors' stories tended to establish the theory there were at least two and identified them as the U-37 and U-151.

Officials today declared that the work of the raiders thus far had been a failure in that only about 21,000 tons of shipping had been destroyed and that what was believed to have been the primary purpose, namely the creation of a demand by the American people for the return of American craft fighting submarines abroad, had been completely defeated.

ALL BUT 10 OF THE 218 PASSENGERS SAVED

NEW YORK, June 5.—All but 10 of the 218 passengers aboard the New York and Porto Rico liner Carolina, sunk by a submarine, have been accounted for, officers of the line announced this forenoon.

These figures were arrived at by checking up the names of the passengers who arrived here today, a schooner and those who reached Lewes, Del., and Atlantic City, N. J., yesterday with a list of passengers furnished by Captain Barbour, commander of the vessel.

CONGRESS MAY TAKE RECESS

Congress is speeding up on pending legislation with the hope of getting a six weeks' recess, beginning the last of this month. During that period the war and means committee will be busily engaged holding hearings and framing the revenue bill intended to raise about $8,000,000,000 next year. Congress has had a busy time of it since we entered the war and there is no sign of immediate relief. While the war lasts congress is likely to have to work overtime.

OFFICERS PUT OUT LIGHTS

In the conservation of fuel it might be well to have police officers extinguish street lights that are sometimes left burning as late as 8 or 9 o'clock in the morning. Of course it is a difficult thing to get around to all the lights so as to extinguish them before sunrise and to expect one or two men to do it is to expect the impossible. The police officers could attend to this matter without going off their beats and thus save the city the expense of paying for a good many lights kept going for several hours in broad daylight.

ENGINEERS DEPARTMENT

We fully agree with Commissioners Morse and Donnelly that the granting a leave of absence to a city official does not create a vacancy.

City Engineer Kearney has gone to serve his country and one of the commissioners is itching to have him ousted and put another man in his place. If the engineers department has so many competent men, why should they not stand ready to perform the department work when called upon, even though none of them be designated as city engineer? Let Mr. Morse indicate what he wants these men to do and it shall be done or else there may be cause for a removal rather than an election.

THE U-BOAT BASES

The great quest of the government now is to find the bases of the German submarines that have raided American shipping along the eastern coast. Some will at once suspect they have stations on the Mexican coast, while rumor has it that their bases are located in Yucatan. These coasts, however, will be closely watched and it will not be well for any American state found harboring the German U-boats. We do not believe that any of the South American countries would give them shelter or assistance, but the sly Germans can easily arrange for establishing bases suitable for their needs without the knowledge of any government authority.

THE CAR BLOCKADES

We do not like to be in the position of hitting a man who is down; but while we realize that the Bay State Street Railway company has considerable to contend with owing to the embarrassed financial condition and the difficulty of getting men to run the cars, yet we do believe that there are many delays at the square and at other points that might be avoided. Just because some conductor or motorman flunks on his job, is behind time or doesn't care, it happens that one car holds up half a dozen or more for from five to fifteen minutes, thus disarranging the running time on as many different routes. The men who can't keep time or who unnecessarily cause these delays should be in some other line of business.

THE TELEGRAPHIC STRIKE

If the contention of the Western Union Telegraph company in the trouble with its employees is that they have no right to organize, that company may as well back down at once. As well might it come out against allowing its employees to breathe fresh air.

It has long ago been conceded by employers in this country and defended as a free exercise of personal liberty by the courts, that the employees of the Western Union or of any other company whatsoever have the absolute right of organizing, unless a plain and specific condition of their employment is that they shall not belong to any such organization and shall not join a union.

Ex-President Taft, chairman of the National War Labor Board, is of the opinion that the Commercial Telegraphers' union is entitled to recognition by the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies. It may as well be made plain to these companies that if they persist in any such attitude as this towards their employees, they are needlessly provoking labor troubles. The companies are discriminating against unionism and thereby departing from the principle laid down by President Wilson that there should be no such discrimination during the war.

It may be necessary to take over the telegraph companies and have them run under government direction as Director McAdoo is running the railroads.

THE HOUSING PROBLEM

The government shows a commendable readiness to assist in solving the local housing problem and to pay liberally for so doing. After a thorough investigation it has found that the housing conditions brought about by government work in Lowell require relief. There is at present a scarcity of tenements for the great influx of people. Property owners and contractors do not care to risk building tenements feeling that most of them might be left vacant after the war. That is a very natural conclusion. Their unwillingness is emphasized by the high cost of labor and material which makes building operations almost prohibitive at the present time where a proper financial return is looked for.

The federal investigators after a very diligent search have concluded that in order to relieve the congestion and provide homes for the workers new buildings are necessary. The proposition is made that the government should pay 75 to 80 per cent of the cost and the city the remainder. That at first sight may seem a liberal offer but at the same time there will be objection on the ground that the city seldom expends money for any such purpose, and that if the government built even a small number of houses it could easily dispose of them after the war, whereas joint ownership would be confusing.

Suppose the government built ten or twenty tenements at a time and rented them only to people employed on government work. It could stop just as soon as the situation seemed to have been reasonably relieved.

It is a well known fact that people will leave old dwellings if they can rent new on reasonable terms. It would not be fair to property owners to erect so many new buildings near the government factories, that many old buildings would be left vacant in other parts of the city, because the former occupants had moved into the new buildings erected by the government.

Such a situation would bring a protest from the parties whose property was left idle. This is the danger line to be avoided in the work of relief and it can be done much better by the government acting independently than if bound up with our city government.

THE TELL-TALE EMPTYIES

According to a New York paper there is trouble in store for congressmen over the alleged fact that no less than 26 empty quart whiskey bottles were collected in one day on a single floor of the house office building outside the doors of members.

Note that the bottles were empty. Had it been otherwise, the janitors might have remained silent, but of course only the empties are discarded, especially when, as the janitors allege, the labels indicated that the brands of whiskey used were among the most expensive.

It used to be the privilege of gentlemen to get drunk where and when they pleased; indeed in some cases it was regarded as the mark of a gentleman to get hilariously drunk, but times have changed and no longer does this custom prevail even in old Kentucky.

On the matter having been brought to the attention of Speaker Clark, who has charge of the office building, that gentleman said he did not believe the members were drinking excessively. Continuing, the speaker said: "In the first place the whiskey that would go in those bottles wouldn't make half a drink all around for the house membership. I've been speaker eight years and I never saw but one man in the house visibly drunk. And he knew enough to vote as he should. They used to have busy days, the capitol in those days members drank because they were too hot or too cold. They used to drink before they made a speech and after they made a speech. Then they used to drink when they had to listen to a speech. Now there is remarkably little drinking among the members."

We are willing to take Speaker Clark's word for it despite the fact that janitors report finding 169 empties a month.

The prohibition members threaten an investigation of such evidence of irrigation in a citadel supposed to be dry; but the matter is too trivial to engage the attention of the members in this hot weather and it is reported as very hot in Washington. If it does not lead to reform where reform is necessary, it may result in the displacement of a few janitors who have not learned the virtue of keeping mum.

TO BEAT THE SUBMARINES

The Germans made a specialty of tanks in their recent drive against the allies. It seems that they were very prompt to realize the efficacy of the tank in such a drive as they had undertaken. Consequently the tanks were provided in much greater numbers than they had ever been used by England that invented them. There were tanks of all sizes and for all purposes. The tank, it seems, appealed to the Germans as a great weapon of war, equal almost to the powerful guns in irresistible force. One of the great secrets of the German success in driving back the allies, lay in the great number of tanks employed in the attack.

There is here a lesson for the allies and particularly for the United States. We have thus far been very much behind in the matter of submarines. It appears that the American submarine is not a howling success. A considerable number of them have shown such a tendency to go to the bottom and stay there that it has been difficult to raise them once they have submerged. Whether they are any good or not, it is an indisputable fact that they have never been used to accomplish the main purpose of a submarine.

Now that the German submarines are with us, why would it not be a good idea to capture one of them, bring it to port and take it as a model from which to construct a number of submarines that would render actual service. The great trouble with the allies is that they have allowed Germany to maintain a monopoly of the submarine warfare. Why did not England build submarines equal to those of Germany and with them seek the German naval bases? With such submarines it seems the Dardanelles might easily have been passed and the Turkish fleet destroyed before Germany got hold of it.

It may be said that it is too late now to do anything in this line, but it did not take Germany very long to make a large squadron of tanks. Why should it take the United States so very long to copy the German submarines once we secure a genuine model?

It is high time there was some means of going into the Kiel canal and attacking the German grand fleet where it is held awaiting an opportunity to make a safe dash against England. After four years of war, the submarine still stands almost as menacing as in the first month of its ruthless attack upon shipping. So will it continue until the allies procure some similar method of attacking Germany. No number of destroyers however vigilant can protect shipping against the treacherous submarines. To say that the "subs" have been beaten or can be beaten by present methods is an exaggeration. Their operations may be hampered and their sinkings partially reduced, but as a steady menace to shipping everywhere the submarine can never be wholly overcome by the methods now in force.

Women Keen to Wear 'Em
Manufacturers report a huge demand throughout the country for women's overalls. Olive drab, they say, seems to be the generally favored color. Though grays and blues are also taken. The most popular type seems to be something on the order of bloomers, the trousers being drawn in around the ankle. Many are taken with detachable skirts to be worn to and from work. Patterns, plans and specifications are furnished by all the fashion magazines.

Lover of Harmony
The little town was highly excited over the announced engagement of the 19-year-old widow to Mr. Hoary. "O, I can't resist having him!" said the young widow. "He does harmonize so beautifully with my antique furniture!"—Sheboyden Sunday Herald.

Well Seasoned
"Nurse," said the soldier, recovering consciousness, "what is this on my head?" "Vinegar cloths," she replied. "You have had fever."

"And what is this on my chest?" "A mustard plaster. You have had pneumonia."

"And what is this at my feet?" "Salt bags! You have had frostbite."

A Curious Stone
Johnny came home from school several times within a month with various bruises on his face and body, received in fights with his schoolmates, and on the last occasion his mother threatened him with severe punishment if he ever engaged in a fight again. Only a few days after the lad appeared with a black eye and, scared by the stern, maternal greetings: "Well, sh!" he departed from his usual truthful ways and stammered:

"I fell down and hit my head on a stone."

"And which got the worst of it?" asked his big brother.

"O, the other fellow," answered Johnny, briskly. "He's gone home with two black eyes."—Pearson's Weekly.

War Gardens!
We couldn't help getting our ear bent in on this chatter by a couple of fellows about their "war gardens" going home on the rattler the other night. "What a lot of light tonight! To work on my war garden!" "You got a war garden, too?" "So far as I've got one in a vacant lot across from the house, and work on it all my spare time!" "How's your coming?" "Great! I'm having a lot of success with it so far!" "Anything come up yet?" "Just beginning to sprout. And I'll be like him. Results already."

"What have you got in your war garden?" "Oh, some peas, sweet peas, nasturtiums, poppies. Tube roses, asters, hollyhocks, tiger lilies, etc."

"I'll tell you, I'll tell you! Prettiest war garden in the neighborhood when it's out in full bloom!"

The Wonders Under the Lid
The war department has lifted the lid from its army transportation activities and let us see what is beneath.

It tells us that 800,000 men are now in France, that 1,000,000 will be there on July 1 and that they are going across at the rate of 150,000 a month. Put an average of 3000 on a ship and this means that 50 transports a month are crossing the ocean. They are not sailing separately, but in vast convoys; yet they are going at the average rate of nearly two every day, producing that bridge of ships of which we have heard much.

No such stupendous transport of troops was ever before attempted in the history of warfare. If no other evidence were available, the success of this great movement would prove that the German submarine campaign has failed. But this is only the beginning. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Troubles of Bill Jones
Because his name is not Bill Jones, the Warrensburg Democrat will call him that and thus avoid offending a subscriber. Bill's wife was away on a visit to relatives when Bill decided to surprise her by painting the steps of the only stairway his home affords. Bill attired himself in carpet slippers and pajamas, leaving his other clothes upstairs. Then he started right at the top and began to paint down. When he had finished the painting he was in a quandary. He could not go upstairs for his clothing without stepping on the wet paint.

After due deliberation he decided he'd get a ladder and make his entry through a second-story window. He went out of doors, slamming the door after him as he went out. When he had climbed the ladder he found that his wife had fastened down the windows, and then when he tried to enter the house again he learned that the door whence he came was equipped with a spring lock.

Neighbors were casting glances of suspicion by this time, so Bill waited around until dark, then ventured out, broke in a window and got his clothes, trembling all the time lest he be mistaken for a burglar.—Kansas City Times.

would be held at Marlboro July 3 and 4. A communication was also received from Marlboro aerie, outlining a program for the state convention. Past Worthy President C. T. O'Keefe invited the members to make suggestions as to amending the laws at the Pittsburg convention. Worthy President John A. Cullin, Treasurer William A. It was the sense of the members that efforts will be made at the state convention that the delegates do their utmost to elect Past Worthy President Edward J. Flanagan as the worthy state president. Brother Flanagan is acting at the present time as worthy vice president of the state aerie. A well attended meeting of the C.M.A.C. was held last night at their quarters, President Louis St. Jean presiding. One new member was initiated and one application received. The annual communion of the members of the club will be held Sunday morning at the 7 o'clock mass at St. Jean Baptist church, and the members are asked to meet at the club rooms at 8.30, prepared to march to the church in a body. There will be a sermon appropriate to the occasion, but the breakfast which has usually followed will be omitted this year.

THE BIG CIRCUS IS COMING TO LOWELL TOMORROW

The circus—Barnum & Bailey's—comes to Lowell tomorrow.

Well! The time is 'most upon us. Tomorrow morning! And those circus folks get up early, too. They'll be here—let's see. About—well, it's hard to say. They'll be here pretty early, though. But they'll not come any too early for the kiddies whose hearts have been going pit-a-pat ever since the first flaming posters were displayed, and who will be on hand at the railroad yards before day-break to welcome the first of the four long trains bearing the circus' good things.

Today the circus is showing in Lawrence and after tonight's performance there will be a rattling and a clattering and a bumping and a booming and a banging and—

"Hey, fellows! Here she is! Here's the circus train!" one in the vanguard of Lowell lads-in-waiting will shout, and the people already on hand will begin to surge around the circus cars and red wagons. Anybody who has ever been around the circus grounds after the trains have arrived, knows what will happen there until 10 o'clock, the hour for starting the parade, arrives. There's going to be a parade, all right, and there will be two performances at 2 and 3 o'clock p. m.

The circus people promise a real circus—the circus of the meadow lot, with a wilderness of red wagons, an army of clowns and women in tuffy skirts riding at breakneck speed, while the ring-master cracks his whip and tumbles fly through the air. And they promise a real parade with all the trimmings for tomorrow morning.

About everything of any standing in the natural history line will be seen. There will be over a score of elephants and two droves of caravans making the hike under their own steam. Six bands and two choirs of musicians will flood the streets with music. There will be bestrapped women riding caparisoned horses attended by brave courtiers, and there will be gorgeous floats and tableaux wagons. There will be—But what difference does it make today what there will be tomorrow?

Everybody turns out for the circus parade. As Polly in "Polly of the Circus" tells the minister, "That doesn't cost you anything."

Starting (no circus hall a-rolling under the "big top") will be a pageant descriptive of the story of "Aladdin and his Wonderful Lamp," following which will come the rapid fire program of arctic acts and features. The elephants have a whole bag full of new tricks, including an elephant brass band. Lupita Ixera, who in her early childhood astonished the natives of Mexico City with her love for the top-most branches of the tallest trees, will thrill with her mid-air exploits. College-bred bruisers will ride bikes, dance the tango and skate on rollers like regular Hans Brinkers. Trained fox terriers and baboons will be seen in equestrian performances. Thoroughbred horses will dance in time and tune and pose in statuesque groupings with ponies and dogs. There will be half a hundred other acts, most of them new.

More than 50 clowns will be turned loose.

The circus is coming to town! Tickets may be bought all day tomorrow at the Liggett Drug Store, at regular prices.

WHAT ENACTMENT OF ESPIONAGE ACT MEANS

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Enactment of the espionage act, just become operative, under which stringent action may be taken against disloyalty or sedition, adds the United States to a long list of nations which have been forced by German propaganda or internal disaffection to invoke the extreme powers of law for their existence.

Short shrift is made of persons in Great Britain, France, Italy and the other allied countries who attempt to foment revolution or betray the state to the enemy. Great Britain's colonies under their system of self-government have followed the example of their mother country in fighting disloyalty, recognizing that the liberties of the world depend on victory in the present war.

Amendments to the war precautions regulations of Australia, received in official despatches today, show the far-reaching steps taken by that commonwealth against sedition. The Sinn Fein organization is outlawed by name and drastic powers are given to the minister of defense to close clubs or places of resort of the Sinn Fein or other disaffected societies. The regulations said in part:

"Any person who, by word of mouth or in writing, or by any act or deed (a) advocates, incites or encourages disloyalty or hostility to the British empire, or to the cause of the British empire, or to the present war; or (b) advocates the dismemberment of the British empire, or who says, or does, anything calculated to incite, encourage or assist such disloyalty or hostility, shall be guilty of an offense against the act."

"The minister may direct that any premises used as a place of public resort, or as a club, the use of which, in his opinion, is prejudicial to the safety or the defense of the commonwealth, shall be kept closed."

"Any person who wears or displays any badge, flag, banner, emblem or symbol of a country with which the king is now at war, or any body or association who is disaffected to the British empire, or of the society, association or movement known as Sinn Fein, shall be guilty of an offense against the act."

"Any officer of police and any police thereto authorized in writing by the minister may, for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this regulation, enter, if need be by force, and search and occupy any premises in relation to which a direction has been given under this regulation."

name, it is a particularly interesting story, beautifully picturized and with acting in it rather above the ordinary. Herbert Heyes, a former Lowell favorite, in the part of the Texas ranger, is finely cast, and Anna Q. Nilsson as "Alaire Austin" is also much liked. The other parts have been carefully looked after. Specially good is the pompous Mexican general, Longorio, who seeks to be president. A second feature is "East Company," a bloodied film, with Franklyn Farnum and Juanita Hansen in the leading roles. THE STRAND
Today offers the last opportunity of seeing Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in their latest screen output, "Cyclone Higgins, D.D." The other feature that concludes today is Kitty Gordon in "The Interloper." If you haven't seen these times, don't miss them. They're great. It is needless to say that the Lowell Memorial day parade pictures are creating no end of favorable comment. You can readily recognize your friends, and perhaps yourself on the screen. The high school regiment, the Boy Scouts, with Scout Commissioner and Scout Executive Williams in the lead, the members of the police department, and all of the others. The "peep" into the crowds along the line of march is also wonderfully good. Don't fail to see this picture and "See yourself as others see you."

Tomorrow the bill for the last three days of the week will include Peggy Hyland in "Peg of the Pirates," an absorbing story of an adventurous beauty and some bold, bad men. The other feature will be Madge Kennedy in "The Fair Pretender." The usual new Pathe Weekly and a comedy will also be shown. Remember it's always cool, clean and comfortable at The Strand.

ROYAL THEATRE
"The Seal of Silence," a Blue Ribbon feature released on April 23, offers exhibitors the unbeatable box office combination of Earle Williams with Grace Darmond in a strong dramatic story. "The Seal of Silence" is the strongest drama that Earle Williams has had in recent months and can be exploited to the limit for it will more than please any class of audience. "The Seal of Silence" contains three distinct story threads, each theme almost powerful enough in itself to form the basis of a feature, all skillfully woven into one absorbing five-part drama that holds the interest from the first flash to the final fade-out. "The Seal of Silence" is a fast-paced drama of the society type with some well timed interpolations of heart interest, pathos and refreshing humor. "The Seal of Silence" tells how a cold, selfish woman vents her spite upon her husband, an eminent physician, by keeping from him knowledge of the realization of his life's greatest desire, the possession of a son, how she pledges to secrecy, the only witness of the boy's birth, a beautiful young girl, the doctor's laboratory assistant, how the girl who loves and is loved by the doctor brings the boy to the doctor's home after the death of the mother and awakens suspicion in the doctor's mind, how she struggles between love and honor and how, after a near tragedy, the doctor learns the truth, makes for a photograph that builds up a series of interesting episodes and culminates in a stirring climax that leaves everyone happy.

This drama will be shown Wednesday and Thursday only, afternoon and evening at the Royal theatre. Besides is booked, the 13th episode of "The House of Hate," the Pathe serial featuring Pearl White and Antonio Moreno, a new Keystone comedy and other attractions.—Adv.

NEW MOTORCYCLES FOR POLICE DEPARTMENT

Four new motorcycles will be purchased within a week or two for the police department, but the mayor has not yet made up his mind what type of machine he will buy. To a Sun reporter this morning His Honor said that the police department has on its hands two old machines. He said he will call for bids and the dealer who will present the highest bid for the purchase of the old cars, will be favored with the sale of the four new machines. In order to gather some information as to the best motorcycle on the market, the mayor has written letters to officials of large cities as well as to officials of the Metropolitan Police, but it seems that the replies have not been satisfactory for every one is boasting the type of machine he is using. The mayor expects to equip the new cars with first aid kits and he would like to have the machines in operation within a couple of weeks.

Ruined Her Clothes

Miss Minnie Breen of 17 Florence avenue has filed a bill with the city solicitor for $61, claiming that a few days ago she was "sprayed" by the moth gang. According to Miss Breen's story she was literally covered with arsenate of lead, which is being used by the moth exterminating employees in spraying trees. The accident, she claims, occurred in Pawtucketville. Her bill is partly as follows: Bag, $5; hat, $9; suit, $45; miscellaneous, $2.

Swimming Pool

The swimming pool in the Merrimack river off the Pawtucket boulevard, which was established by ex-Mayor O'Donnell last year, will be reopened this year. Mayor Thompson stated this morning that some time this week he will appoint an officer for duty at the pool and he expects that by the early part of next week the "kiddoes" may enjoy their dip with police protection.

Officer Suspended

After being given a hearing and being found guilty of violating rule 19 of the police manual, Patrolman James J. Noonan has been suspended without pay for a period of five months by Mayor Thompson.

STREET APPROPRIATIONS AND STREET WORK

Men who have occasion to use them a great deal assert that Lowell's streets were never in worse condition than at present, and visiting autoists say "amen."

"What is being done with the big appropriation allowed the street department this year?"

That question was "fired" at us over the phone this morning and we asked Mr. Morse about it. Mr. Morse is the commissioner of streets and highways and in reply to our query, stated that the paving of Back Central street from Church street to Hosford square, the paving of Marginal street, and Thorne-dike street from Summer street to Appleton street will be the only new work done this year.

"The policy of doing away with new street work during the war," said Mr. Morse, "has been adopted by practically every city in the country, and the same policy will apply to sewer work, except in very urgent cases."

The fact remains, however, that when any budget was made out for the commissioner of streets and highways was allowed an appropriation of $140,000 for street maintenance, and those who complain about the condition of streets here are more interested in street maintenance than in new streets or new work.

But Mr. Morse says he does not think he will be able to get by on that amount, though it is rather difficult to discover where any of it has been expended as yet.

In addition to the $140,000 for street maintenance, the commissioner was also allowed $75,000 for sewer work, meaning paving and macadamizing.

The commissioner stated this morning that he has now about $800,000 on his payroll, and the weekly payroll averages about $2000.

Asked the extent of street work now going on, Mr. Morse said there is a lot of men employed in block paving back Central street from church street to Hosford square. As soon as this job is completed the men will be shifted over to Thorne-dike street and later to Marginal street. Employees of the department are also busy putting edgework in various parts of the city, while others are doing patch work here and there. A portion of Westford street will be patched and rolled, while a portion of Stevens street will be repaired. In Broadway there will be some patching done.

"The high cost of labor and material is something terrible," conceded Mr. Morse, and that's the best we can

AMERICAN ADMIRATION FOR THE ITALIANS

By Associated Press.

AMERICAN SEAPLANE TRAINING CAMP, Italy. (By mail.)—American admiration for Italian efficiency and hospitality is one of the sentimental facts which has developed here since the establishment of this camp on the edge of an inland lake by joint agreement of the navy department of the two nations.

"We can't say enough nice things about our Italian friends from any point of view," explained the American commander of the students. "Their efficiency is only equalled by their capacity for friendship. Their hospitality is unbounded. They don't seem to be able to do enough for us."

"This is certainly no place for boob fliers," declared one of the young ensigns who, having obtained his brevet at Pensacola, Florida, has come down here with a group of others to learn the Italian water machine. "The Italian instructor pilots are all crack men and the Italian machinists are the most competent crowd I have met. They have the sixth sense, all right. They can detect a defective motor when the machine is two thousand feet high and flying at eighty miles an hour. When a man learns to fly here he can fly anywhere in any machine."

The training camp here is one of the many dozens that have been established all over Italy in connection with Italy's ambition to conquer in the air. When Senator Pio Foa complained in the Italian senate that there were so many aviation camps in Italy that ground useful for grain cultivation was being unduly occupied, he was not very far wide of the mark.

For the past two years Italian officers have been insisting that victory would come only through the air, and these camps are the result of the effort in that direction. According to Commissioner General of Aeronautics Chissari, Italy today has 40,000 men in various branches of machine manufacture.

That American aviators are at last coming into Italy first for training and later for fighting is a subject of satisfaction to all Italians and particularly to the Italian aviation corps.

As a mark of Italy's pride at having Americans to train, one of the navy's most distinguished air machine officers was instructed to build the camp. He is technically in charge of the camp, with an American commander to control the training of the American students.

The work of turning out men for active service either as observers or pilots has gone on rapidly. The big problem is to keep the men flying, to give them the practice necessary to make an all round man. Thirty hours in the air is generally required for each man. This seems like a small amount of time until it is realized that this means at least 120 flights of 15 minutes each and that it is not always easy to give each man as much as one flight of 15 minutes a day. Flying is like farming. It is regulated by the weather.

Seaplane flying is quite a different art from that of so-called landplane flying. In both the landing is difficult, but in seaplanes landing the landing gear is not made without danger if there is mist hanging over the water or if the water's surface is mirrorlike, since in either case the flier cannot judge distances and in nosing preliminary to landing he may hit the water too soon, drown himself and wreck a valuable machine. Further, every condition varies according to the type of machine being used.

where on the new salient. North of Moulins-Sous-Touvent, northwest of Soissons, the French have improved their positions, gaining some hotly contested terrain from the Germans. Enemy attacks against the Metz fort, although strong are being localized. Near Longpont the Germans were able to penetrate the forest, but French counter attacks threw them out.

Heavy Enemy Artillery Fire

If they follow the tactics employed in the Picardy and Flanders battles, the Germans probably will make very strong efforts to improve locally important positions before they finally give up their effort to advance. The enemy artillery fire is very heavy from north of the Aisne to the Ourcq, on the western wing, and around Rheims, on the east, which still holds out.

Americans on Five Sectors

In addition to the present battle, American troops are actively engaged on four sectors and preparing to enter the front line on a fifth—Flanders, northwest of Toul, east of Lunville, north of St. Mihiel along the Meuse, and west of Montdidier, in Picardy. General Pershing's men had given a good account of themselves before the entrance of American units into the fighting east and west of Chateau-Thierry.

Expect New Drive Through Amiens

With the halting of the offensive on the new salient, the military experts expect the Germans will make another attempt to reach the channel ports through Amiens and crush the Anglo-French forces before the full strength of the American effort can be brought into play. The supreme war council has expressed confidence in the situation and the ability of General Poch to combat the enemy's plans. Premier Clemenceau has told the French chamber of deputies that the future depends on American help.

Germans Repulsed in Raids

Fighting operations on the western front elsewhere than south of the Aisne, are at a minimum. There has been active artillery firing on the Belgian sector and on parts of the British front, where the Germans have been repulsed in raids north of Kemmel, in Flanders, and between Albert and Arras in Picardy.

GERMANS CONTINUE LOCAL ATTACKS ON MAIN FRONT

PARIS, June 5.—The Germans continued local attacks last evening and during the night on the main battle-front, the war office announced today. Attempts made on the French lines at Carlepoint wood, Dommeiers, Corey and in the neighborhood of Chery, failed. In the region north of Corey an action by the French Infantry assisted by tanks, rectified the French line on the borders of the forest.

The statement follows:

"Local attacks continued last evening and during the night. On the northern outskirts of Carlepoint wood two German attacks were arrested by the fire of French machine guns. Other efforts in the region of Antraches, east of Dommeiers and near Corey, also were broken up. North of Corey an infantry action, supported by tanks, enabled the French to rectify their line on the outskirts of the forest."

"South of the Ourcq the Germans made violent attacks against Chery and southeast of this locality. French troops broke all their assaults, inflicting serious losses on the adversary."

"The artillery fighting continues to be very spirited north of the Aisne and in the region of Rheims."

GEN. PERSHING'S REPORT ON AMERICAN SUCCESSES

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A terse announcement is made in General Pershing's evening communique of the actions announced yesterday by the French war office in which Americans by a brilliant counter-attack repulsed the Germans near Chateau-Thierry, and French and American troops drove back an enemy force which had crossed the Marne farther south.

The communique says:

"In the fighting northwest of Chateau-Thierry our troops broke up an attempt of the enemy to advance south through Neuilly woods and by a counter-attack drove him back to the north of the woods. On the Marne front, a German battalion which had crossed at Jaulgonne, was counter-attacked by French and American troops and forced to retreat to the right bank. It sustained severe losses in killed and prisoners."

"Patrolling was active in Picardy and Lorraine."

"In the Vosges, we shelled the enemy positions, using gas."

SUCCESSES REPORTED FROM AMERICAN PATROLS

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Tuesday, June 4 (By the Associated Press).—In an encounter between an American patrol and a party of 17 Germans on the Lunerville front, early today, three Germans are reported to have been killed. Another patrol destroyed an enemy concrete observation post.

German guns and airplanes were most active on the Lunerville sector today. The artillery showered the area behind the American lines with explosive, shrapnel and gas shells to a degree unknown for many weeks.

Four German airplanes crossed to some distance behind the American lines. They were attacked by American aviators, but succeeded in escaping. There were numerous other air combats.

GEN. PERSHING'S COMMUNIQUE REPORTS PATROL ENGAGEMENT

WASHINGTON, June 5.—General Pershing reported today the contact between American and German patrols in which three Germans were killed. News of the engagement came first in press despatches.

The communique reads:

"Number 31.—Section B: On the night of June 3 to June 4, one of our patrols operating in Lorraine destroyed the concrete observation posts in the enemy's line. During the same night and in the same district, an encounter took place between American and German patrols. Three Germans are reported to have been killed."

GERMAN ATTEMPT TO RAID BRITISH LINES CHECKED

LONDON, June 5.—German troops this morning attempted to raid the British line southwest of Morlandcourt, in the region east of Amiens, the war office announced today. Although the enemy was supported by heavy artillery fire, he was repulsed and left prisoners in the hands of the British.

BABY WEIGHERS ARE WILLING WORKERS

The spirit of co-operation in Lowell's baby weighing campaign is one of the most pleasant features of the drive which is being held this week. Everybody, even those only remotely connected with the campaign itself, is co-operating. The nurses, committee of workers, school teachers and janitors and the general public are all doing their share to make the affair a success.

In some places the activity has been so great that it has been found necessary to add an extra pair of scales and another nurse to do the work satisfactorily.

The varying ages of the children who are brought into the various stations to be weighed and measured make an interesting study. One child was only two weeks old while others were well over five years.

At one station a pair of twins was brought in. The campaign is to continue through Saturday evening and all the stations will be open on that evening, according to a statement made by Mrs. Frederick P. Marble, general director of the campaign, this noon. However, it is hoped that others will bring their babies to the nearest station as soon as possible and thus avoid an eleventh hour rush.

To date, the total number of children weighed and measured is well over 1000. It is figured that there are about 10,000 children of five years and under in the city.

The campaign is under the general supervision of the Child Welfare Conservation committee of which Mrs. Edward N. Burke is chairman.

Walter H. Hoyt of the Knowles Scale Co. has offered the use of the scales that are being used in the campaign.

CAMPAIGN FOR SALE OF WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

Beginning next Friday morning Lowell and the rest of northern Middlesex county will enter the throes of a 20 days' campaign that is destined to outstrip all previous affairs as far as representative effort and co-operation are concerned.

The period between June 7 and June 25 is to be devoted to a concentrated campaign for the sale of war saving and thrift stamps. The purpose of the drive will be to sell stamps and to obtain pledges for future purchases throughout the year.

Robert F. Marden has been appointed chairman of the county drive and Jas. F. Owens will look after Lowell and the towns in the immediate adjacency. Mrs. James H. Carnichael will head a women's committee which will canvass the women of the city. Mrs. J. Harry Boardman will look after the district as a whole.

There will be no buttons in the campaign, but every person who buys a stamp will be given a pennant. The campaign will be waged in the theatres and on the street corners and a feature will be the speaking of boy orators, some of whom will be those who won four-minute speaking contests recently conducted in local schools. There will also be other "peppery" speakers to explain the stamps.

June 25 is to be known as National War Savings day and President Wilson has made an appeal, part of which is reproduced below.

Chairman (Owens) will open an office in the Hildreth building in the near future to look after the many details such a campaign will bring forth. It is expected that the recent Red Cross campaign organization will form the nucleus of the drive which opens Friday.

A portion of the president's appeal is as follows:

"The great results which we seek can be obtained only by the participation of every member of the nation, young and old, in a national concerted (thrift) movement. I therefore urge that our people everywhere pledge themselves, as suggested by the secretary of the treasury, to the practice of thrift; to serve the government to their utmost in increasing production in all fields necessary to the winning of the war; to conserve food and fuel, and useful material of every kind; to devote their labor only to the most necessary tasks, and to buy only those things which are essential to individual health and efficiency, and that the people, as evidence of their loyalty, invest all that they can save in Liberty bonds and War Savings Stamps."

"The securities issued by the treasury department are so many of them within the reach of every one that the door of opportunity in this matter is wide open to all of us. To practice thrift in peace-times is a virtue, and brings great benefit to the individual at all times; with the desperate need of the civilized world today for materials and labor with which to end the war, the practice of individual thrift is a patriotic duty and a necessity."

"I appeal to all who now own either Liberty bonds or Savings Stamps to continue to practice economy and thrift and to appeal to all who do not own government securities to do likewise and to purchase them to the utmost extent of their means."

POSITIVE 16 PERSONS LOST FROM BOAT

LEWES, Del., June 5.—The statement that 16 persons were lost during the storm of Sunday night from the motor boat which contained survivors of the torpedoed steamship Carolina, was made upon the authority of George Howard, deck steward. He was positive about it.

FOR FULTON-DENNEY MOUT
NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 5.—Not disconcerted over the refusal of the Danbury Agricultural society to let him the fair grounds for a boxing bout on July 4, at which the Jack Dempsey-Fred Fulton match would be the big item, Joseph Mulvihill today declared he had other places in view, including one outside the Danbury city limits, and at South Norwalk. He said he was going right ahead on plans for an arena to seat 45,000 persons.

A special report to the department of commerce from Vice Consul Stewart S. Hayes at London states that the demand for athletic equipment in England has been decreased since the war, began about 60 per cent on all goods except footballs, boxing gloves and baseball paraphernalia. The supply of baseball equipment has at all times been less than the demand, which foreign dealers sought to meet by importations, but, being unable to gauge the market, they continued to order in insufficient quantities until the restriction that they require special playing fields difficult to obtain, while an impromptu game of baseball may be organized at a moment's notice. The age limit of the British army was set at 41 years in April, 1916, with the prospect of being raised to 50, so that every able-bodied man is engaged in some work of such national importance that he has no time for the widely popular amateur sports of peace times.

In 1874, when she was Miss Jennie Jerome of New York, she married Lord Randolph Churchill. The latter died in 1895, and five years later she married George Cornwallis-West. She obtained a divorce from him in 1912, resuming the name of her first husband.

and charming every woman should learn by the time she is sixteen, and remember every day thereafter: All men hate tears and love smiles; there is no beauty in a mouth which does not smile.

Mouth corners are like a trafficked policeman's signal to men who have eyes and use them.

Lips that turn downward signal "Go ahead!"

Lips that turn downward signal "Stop!"

And lips that lie in a straight line might say "Take a chance, you may be able to turn the corner."

Wise men look to a woman's mouth for more than words and smiles.

BIG Y.M.C.A. TRACK MEET SATURDAY

The big Y.M.C.A. track meet which was postponed Memorial day on account of weather conditions will be held on the South common Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the indications are that it will prove one of the best held in this city for some time. The meet was originally planned for Shedd park, but difficulty in laying out a track and having the place roped off caused Director Fred Flynn and his committee to make the shift to the South common.

The postponement has brought about many new entrants. One of the latest to agree to participate is Jim Andromedus, the well known Greek shot put, who will appear in the shot put, the high and broad jumps, and several other events. Many other prominent track men will appear, including Luke McNamee, Jimmie Liston, Fred Couty, J. Maloney, Lieut. Joseph Riley, Mike Haggerty, Mike Wrenn, Keith, Crowe, Aitama and numerous others.

The Y.M.C.A. in the C.Y.M.L. and High school will have representatives in the various events. The meet is open to all and entry blanks may be secured at 220 High street or 31 Clark street.

The general public is invited and no admission fee will be charged.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Union Blues are still keeping up the good work. Their two latest conquests were defeating the fifth grade of St. Peter's school, 14 to 1, and the Chicagoes, 8 to 2. The first game of both games was the battery work of W. Reagan and Munkatolo for the winners.

The Lincoln A.C. baseball team of Lawrence would like to cross bats with any team of Lowell from 14 to 16 years old. Telephone 8884 any night between 8.30 and 9.

LOWELL FISH AND GAME CLUB HONOR ROLL

The last meeting of the Lowell Fish and Game association before the vacation season was held last evening. It was expected that a service flag could be unfurled, but it was decided to postpone it until a future date. The honor list of the club included the following names which were read by the secretary:

Dead, Ralph W. Tewksbury and Arthur J. Langley, and active in the service, Joseph J. Ahearne, John C. Ayala, Alden F. Barris, Maurice Bogomoloff, Frederick K. Christos, William C. S. Coppen, Louis Descheneaux, William Devanis, Albert C. Goss, Walter C. Goss, Albert X. Hamel, Paul H. Harford, William J. Hessian, Roscoe F. Haynes, Dr. C. B. Livingston, William H. McKinnon, Fred J. Melchior, C. Nathan, C. Mottion, Daniel C. O'Dea, Jackson, Palmer, George E. Portmure, Gerald Silk, John T. Sparks and J. J. McGlinchy.

New members admitted to the association last evening included Otto Lockmeier, Frank W. Brown, Frank S. Hunt, John P. Donlay, Royal W. Hunt, W. M. E. Gibbons, George S. Gombler, Blaynard Pierce, Louis Regnier, Henry W. Dexter, Harry P. Graves, James D. Cluett, Harry H. Whitton, John W. Geary, Charles C. Dodge of Cambridge and Otis Haven of Burlington.

A very pleasing feature of the meeting was furnished by George L. Hunt who in a reminiscent way told of the habits of the rainbow trout which brooks about Lowell have been stocked. The rainbow trout is a native of California and it was here, within the golden gates, that Dr. Huntson studied the habits of the pecked beauties. His talk was a very interesting one and club members hope to hear more from him at some later date.

CAMP NEWS

INDIRECT MACHINE GUN FIRE EFFECTIVE-LIEUT. CLARKE GIVEN TWO YEAR TERM

CAMP DEVENS, June 5.—So far have the men of the 76th Division driven the enemy in the Still River area, that yesterday afternoon it was necessary for the division to bring its artillery further forward. And it was under the eyes of their commanding general that the artillery was moved up. Guns drawn by horses, mounted on motor trucks and heavy guns pulled by motor power were all brought forward. All three of the artillery regiments were represented.

The maneuver was successfully carried out and things were kept hot for Fritz even when the batteries were moving. Early yesterday afternoon Holiday House, the main objective of the division, was captured. Troops advanced at the run and occupied the enemy positions, after a machine gun barrage had peppered his strongholds.

When the troops advanced a battery of machine guns opened on the house at a range of 1800 yards. It was the first time that indirect fire by machine guns has been used in this "battle." As Holiday House itself is occupied by the range guards, it obviously could not be subjected to machine gun fire, so a wooden house, 450 yards to the left of Holiday House was substituted. From a position in a valley the machine guns began to bark and bullets streamed high into the air, over a hill in front and fell in a shower directly on to the main objective of the division.

Indirect Machine Gun Fire

The theory of indirect fire by machine guns was not new to the officers, but it made some of them gasp a little to see the national army machine gunners drop a veritable stream of bullets into a house from a position where they could scarcely see 300 yards in front of them. The bullets made a sieve of a perfectly good house. Then the infantry charged the position and took it with scarcely a casualty. When Holiday House fell the trullery began to move forward.

It was hot work. The artillerymen carried their full equipment on their backs, but they did not mind the jump every minute, perspiration rolling from their faces. In almost no time at all a battery of the 302d Field Artillery had crossed Still River.

INTERESTING LETTERS FROM LOWELL SOLDIERS IN THE WAR ZONE

Mrs. J. M. Akery of 217 Salem street has the honor of contributing the first "Mother's day" letter to this column. Mrs. Akery received the following interesting letter from her son, First Sgt. Howard Akery of the 101st Engineer Train in France; it was dated May 12:

France, May 12, 1918.
My Dear Mother: This Mother's day in our grand and glorious U.S.A. and I could not let it pass without dropping you a little note. I hope it will find you well and happy. I am well and hope to write to you again soon. I am sending you a little book which the Y.M.C.A. has given us and I hope you will enjoy it. One certainly misses his mother after being away from home so long as I have and it makes a fellow appreciate what a home means to him. Everything is going along fine with me and I am in the best of health. The weather is fair and we see more sun now than usual. It is very nice here when the weather is fair, but it is very seldom fair.

Well, dear mother, I will have to close now and kiss you good-bye. With lots of love from your loving son, HOWARD.

CROWD SOUGHT TO LYNCH GERMAN

PORTLAND, Me. June 5.—Charles A. Miller, a German, fled to escape lynching after being knocked down by Samuel Sherr on Fore street yesterday. An angry mob gathered round the fugitive, who dodged into a doorway, and was assisted through a shop and out of the back door by the proprietor.

"Well, what do you think now about that German drive?" Miller had asked Sherr.

"O, that's nothing; the alien will be kept in proper before they get through," replied Sherr.

The Germans are too strong and too smart for the allies," said Miller.

Sherr's fist shot out and the conversation ceased abruptly as Miller toppled over on the sidewalk. "The

LOCAL HIBERNIANS ENLARGE QUARTERS

The Central council of the local Hibernians has taken over the quarters formerly occupied by the Club, an association composed of local mill men and others, in the Howe building, and these quarters will be used to supplement the quarters already occupied by the Hibernians on the top floor of the building.

The final deal was not through Monday evening by the officers of the Central council. All the fixtures and furnishings were purchased and these include pool tables, baths, etc.

The addition of these new quarters will give the Hibernians one of the best homes of any organization in the city and will aid the order to augment its already extensive work in Lowell.

Next Sunday a class initiation will be held in Hibernian hall and approximately 250 new members are to be initiated. A degree team from Division 1, Patrick J. Murphy, captain, has been rehearsing consistently for the past several weeks to perfect the exercises and meetings are being held every evening this week to arrange final details.

The initiation will take place at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon and the occasion will be honored by the presence of state and national officers, including Patrick E. Cannon, national vice president, of Clinton; Richard Dwyer, state president, of South Boston; and James Farrell, state vice president, of Waltham.

PRIEST INVENTS POWERFUL AIRSHIP

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., June 5.—The Rev. T. J. Glynn, a Catholic priest, has invented a large, powerful, triple propeller, airship, which is said to be much larger and much more powerful than the machines now in use. The planes and huge body are made entirely of sheet metal. The main propeller is mounted directly on the shaft of the motor; the other two propellers are set on bracket bearings a few feet below on each side of the main propeller and are driven by an engine, chain geared to the main motor shaft.

AMERICANS DRIVE HUNS BACK IN BRILLIANT BAYONET ATTACK

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Tuesday, June 4. (By The Associated Press.)—The American troops thrown into the present great battle on the front northwest of Chateau-Thierry, in a brilliant bayonet attack drove the Germans from Neuilly, in which they were attemping to establish themselves after occupying the village of Neuilly-la-Poterie in severe fighting.

The Germans poured a heavy machine gun fire into the American ranks, but the Americans rushed forward and destroyed the hastily erected machine gun positions on the edge of the woods. Continuing their advance they engaged the Germans at close quarters, and cleared them entirely from their positions, driving them back upon the ruined village.

All Huns Killed or Captured. In a sharp combat, marked by the fierceness of the allied machine gun fire, French and American troops side by side almost wiped out small German forces which had reached the left bank of the Marne near Javille, west of Chateau-Thierry. Most of the enemy survivors were rounded up in small groups and made prisoners.

On Monday in the attack against the Germans at Neuilly, the Americans drove them back on the front of a narrow salient. The ground was cleared of the enemy and the Americans are now holding their position there. The American losses, according to the latest reports available, were exceedingly slight, most of them resulting from shell fire.

Prevent Huns Crossing Marne. The first Americans to enter the battle zone were troops of a machine gun battalion. They rode on trucks during all of Friday night and arrived at their new position on Saturday morning. These were the troops which repulsed the enemy forces which attempted to cross the Marne river.

The machine gunners were stationed within a certain town and began operations by pointing the muzzles of their weapons through broken walls, bushes and holes knocked in the side of houses.

Guns Skillfully Hidden. The guns were skillfully hidden and the Germans were unable to locate them. The Germans shelled the town heavily and the Americans took positions accordingly. Later on the enemy entered the outskirts, only to be pounded by the allied artillery.

The correspondent today went over the battle area and interviewed many of the American and French soldiers. They are in excellent spirits and confident that the line will hold, although the worst probably is yet to come, as the Germans have not been able to bring up much heavy artillery. Until then probably, the outcome cannot be determined.

Battle Over Hill Country. The battle is raging over a hilly country, where crops are growing and there are no prepared trenches. When the Americans entered the line the fighting was shifting back and forth like a seething maelstrom. The Americans each dug in and the Germans, like experienced hands. One of the American officers said:

"The Germans are now learning that the Americans are as resourceful as any. The Germans do not like the Americans because they can dig in with one hand and fight with the other, and smile at the same time."

sufficient to give me a clear insight to the worth and then I branched forth as the seventh son of the seventh son and people fell by the hundreds, especially in Canada. Then I found that by telling a person that he or she was suffering from some ailment which would be cured by following my directions and using my preparation, that the profits could be increased; but remember, I never applied the medicine neither did I treat a person as a physician. The stuff that I gave was some harmless thing like glycerine and water, water colored with coloring used in cakes, which would never hurt a person, whether taken internally or externally.

"Do big people fall for it? Well, I should say so. I know a well known lawyer whom I separated from some coin, but then he got it the same way out of some other person. I was to cure his wife and mother before I would touch the case and finally, when I agreed to start after receiving half of my fee, I walked out of his office and was not seen by him until the police gathered me in. He did not appear for me in court. In fact, he appeared against me, but then I didn't blame him.

"They got me right in Worcester some years ago. Ninety-two cases is all they had against me. I entered a plea of guilty when they bunched them and got a sentence of three months in jail and a fine of $100. Owing to the fact that I did not have the coin of the realm, I served six months in all."

Laplanche said the palms of a number present, laughed and joked, and when he was starting for the court room said: "Now I am going to get my medicine."

Laplanche was passing through Moody st. last night when a person notified Patrolman Cossette that Laplanche had been buncing people and Laplanche was sent to the police station on suspicion and this morning after admitting that he had brought into court and sentenced.

Laplanche visited Lowell (three years ago) was immorally attired, wore a silk tie and used an automobile on many occasions, but this morning his appearance was anything but that of a prosperous person. He was attired in a Palm Beach suit which was much the worse for wear, his face had several days' growth of beard, but nevertheless he wore the smile that he declares is his greatest asset.

Before being brought into court he talked with members of the police department, relating many of his experiences, some of which sound like fiction, but which he claims are the truth. "Booze was my downfall on this occasion," said Laplanche. "I had not taken a drink for a number of months until a few days ago when I fell for the freewater and became reckless, but what's the use of kicking. This life is not always a bed of roses and now and then when a person strikes the thorns, just forget it. Yesterday I had 22 drinks of whiskey. Do you wonder that I fell into the clutches of these blue coats? I don't blame them, however. They are good fellows and just doing their plain duty and believe me, I have met some wonderful fellows in the police department. Oh yes, I've been arrested before and served time. I believe in telling the truth, for they are sure to get you in the end and if you make work easy for them they are inclined to be lenient. Gee, but I wish I had a drink of whiskey at the present time to straighten me out, I am very nervous."

Laplanche then drifted into telling some of his experienced. "Of course," he said, "you all remember P. T. Barnum's saying that there is a sucker born every minute. Well, I have met many of them and P. T. was all to the merrily when he said that, but the fellow who said that 'The pitcher that goes too often to the well will be broken', also knew what he was talking about, and on this occasion I am the pitcher."

"Do you believe in palmistry, fortune telling or the like?" he was asked. "Do you?" he shot back, and his interrogator's answer was in the negative.

"I don't either," said Laplanche. "It is all fake, humbug or whatever you want to call it, but people want to be bunced and fall for it. A number of years ago I got the bug that there might be something to it and visited palmists and fortune tellers on about 100 occasions. I paid, but could not be convinced that there was anything to it. I saw the easy money that these people were making and decided that I was entitled to collect some of it. My experience as a victim was
